Manslaughter verdict stuns O'Day family

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

A Wayne County Circuit Court jury deliberated for less than two days, and after a deadlock vote of 10-2 in favor of second-degree murder, finally convicted Darryl Johnson, 17, of Inkster, of involuntary manslaughter last Wednesday in the stabbing death of Robert O'Day Jr. at Romulus High School.

As a result of his conviction last Wednesday, Johnson could face a maximum prison sentence of 15 years or a minimum sentence of probation. Judge Maureen P. Reilly, who listened to the testimonies during the eight-day trial, will announce the sentence on Nov. 17.

The colorful and somewhat sensational trial was marked by defense attorney Sharon O'Hara-Bruce, who, according to Reilly, exhibited "grossly unprofessional" behavior throughout the trial, including interrupting and shouting at both the judge and prosecutor. O'Hara-Bruce was eventually sentenced to 15 days in Wayne County Jail for contempt of court. The jury was comprised of 10 women and two men. Of the jurors, two women reportedly maintained that Johnson was guilty of manslaughter and not second-degree murder. The jury deadlocked at the end of the first day and by the end of the second, finally reached a verdict.

"I can't understand how two people turned the heads of 10," said a disappointed Robert O'Day Sr. following the announcement of the verdict.

"The reaction on the face of the judge was disbelief. I think everyone in the courtroom was shocked. We are really disturbed by the verdict," he said. "Basically, it stinks."

O'Day said that in the closing arguments, the defense painted a picture of racial discrimination which he stated "upset everyone." Johnson is black and O'Day is white.

"My son's best friend was black. He didn't know the difference between black and white. The O'Day family are not racist people," he stressed.

The incident occurred in a hallway outside the locker room at Romulus High School on the afternoon of Jan. 31. Johnson, a junior at Robichaud High School in Dearborn Heights, entered the school with his cousin, Lewis McMullen, 14, a Romulus student and two other friends to make amends for a scuffle that had ensued earlier in the day between McMullen and a wrestling teammate of O'Day.

The youths admitted at the trial that they returned to the school to look for O'Day's teammate because they wanted "to talk to him." The wrestling coach, Norman Butler, who stood between both groups of youths in the doorway of the locker room, reportedly asked the youths to leave, and Butler received one of the first punches. Shortly after, Johnson pulled out a pocketknife with a 6 inch blade and stabbed O'Day once in the chest. He then fled the scene.

Neither youth had a history of violence, according to reports. O'Day was a star athlete and captain of both the wrestling and football team. He had received a full-ride scholarship to Western New Mexico University.

Johnson, meanwhile, received good grades and was never a problem in school, according to his school counselor. Johnson's family, who belong to the Jehovah Witnesses religious affiliation, reportedly practiced strict fundamentalist Christian beliefs.

Johnson claimed self-defense during the trial. "The two black women of the jury said it's not unusual for black people to carry knives or razor blades on themselves or in their purses," said O'Day after the trial. "When you're from the murder capital of the world, nothing is new. It's just an everyday thing. It appears people in Detroit have a lower quality of life, and it's extremely sad."

"The verdict is a real shame. It's still murder, but it's not a big price to pay for taking someone's life. Hopefully, the judge will give him the full 15 years."

"My wife and I don't even discuss this anymore. We just take one day at a time," he said.

once, twice, sold

Accidents claim four victims on local roads

Four people were killed in separate traffic accidents on local roadways during the past week.

The victims included Nicole Warden, 3, of Romulus, William Henry Michels, 19, of Ypsilanti, Chandrasekharan Nair, 43, of Detroit and Ryrd Anderson Boisture, 85, of Romulus.

William Henry Michels, 19, was pronounced dead at the scene early last Tuesday morning on eastbound I-94 near the Ecorse Road exit.

Apparently, while traveling at a high rate of speed, Michels lost control of his car as he attempted to pass another vehicle. He slightly brushed the other vehicle, police surmise, and lost control. He ran off the roadway and struck an exit pole.

"The car split in two complete parts," said Romulus Police Lieutenant Ken Kraus. "It didn't budge the pole."

The driver of the other car was not injured.

Within 12 hours, a 3-year-old Romulus girl was fatally injured when the vehicle her mother was driving went out of control and crashed into a disabled truck on eastbound I-94, east of Belleville Road in Van Buren Township.

The victim, Nicole Warden, was the only passenger in the car driven by her mother, Pamela Warden, 26. An only child, she was pronounced dead on arrival at Beyer Hospital in Ypsilanti. According to police records, the child's mother had struck her head and received scrapes and bruises in the accident. She was treated and released by the hospital.

Van Buren police said that Warden left the roadside and struck an unoccupied truck which was disabled on the shoulder of the road. According to police, the infant was strapped in the front with a seat belt, but not in a children's safety seat.

Thursday evening, a head-on collision on Goddard Road near Vining caused the death of Chandrasekharan Nair, 43, of Detroit.

He and one other person were passengers in a car driven by Thomas T. Thomas of Keego Harbor. Both the passenger and Thomas were uninjured.

According to police, John Blair Rush, 45, of Allen Park was traveling eastbound on Goddard Road when his car crossed the center line and struck Thomas' vehicle. Witnesses, police reported, said Rush was weaving back and forth over the center line and struck the side of the car. Nair was sitting in the back seat.

Nair was transported to Annapolis Hospital and then taken by helicopter, called "survival flight," to the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor. He died about four hours after the accident.

The fourth fatality and third one within the city limits occurred Sunday at 10 a.m. on Middlebelt Road north of Smith when a resident was killed as he backed out of his driveway.

Byrd Anderson Boisture, 85, of Romulus was killed when he attempted to back out from his driveway on Middlebelt but was struck by an oncoming car. His two passengers were not injured.

In each of these accidents, basic traffic laws were violated.

Don Edward Lechvar, 40, of Inkster, received only minor injuries when his car struck Boisture's. Middlebelt Road is under construction in this area and the weather was rainy, according to police reports of the incident. Police said, however, that these were not determining factors in the accident.

"In each of these accidents, basic traffic laws were violated. Either an error in judgment, driving too fast or drinking were the underlying problems here," said Romulus Safety Police Chief Charles Wilmoth.

"This is really strange to have three fatalities in Romulus within one week. In my 27 years of police work, I have never seen this happen," he said.

The chief suggested the large volume of traffic generated by the airport and the intersection of two major interstate highways creates the potential for traffic problems, not just fatalities.

"I don't have the answer. Only through education, awareness and good enforcement could we expect to see a reduction in these types of accidents. But maybe not," he said.

Police charged with abuse

Headlines in one of the major daily newspapers in Detroit charging Romulus police with brutality outraged members of the Romulus City Council at the regularly-scheduled meeting Monday night.

"This is newspaper sensationalism at its best," said Councilman Fred Block about an article which appeared in a regular edition of The Detroit News Saturday.

The story was published after parents of several teenage Romulus residents filed a lawsuit in Wayne County Circuit Court Thursday charging that their "civil rights were violated by police brutality."

The suit names Romulus, Taylor, Huron Township and the Wayne County Sheriff as co-defendants in the case. The four law enforcement agencies responded to a private residence in southeast Romulus at about 3:20 a.m. July 20 after

Voters to decide school millage

Whether Romulus Public Schools can survive the present budget crunch will almost entirely depend on how the votes are cast next Tuesday during the November general election.

At that time, Romulus residents will cast their vote either for or against a 1.5-mill renewal proposal that is to be used exclusively for school maintenance.

"The outcome of the election will be the difference of whether we can financially make it or not," said school Financial Director Joel Carr. "This is the second year in a row that the school's budget is running at a deficit."

The reason for the deficit, Carr explained, is due to a recent teacher contract which retroactively reimbursed Romulus teachers. "Eighty-five percent of the budge supplies teacher salaries," he said.

This is the second time that Romulus voters will be faced with the task of keeping the district afloat. An initial attempt to approve the 1.5-mill package was turned down by a two-thirds majority, or 178 people, during the primary election in June.

School Superintendent William Bedell emphasized that the renewal proposal was not a request for an increase. "The money can only be used for improvements of facilities and the purchase of instructional equipment," he said. "It cannot be used for wages or other general fund purposes."

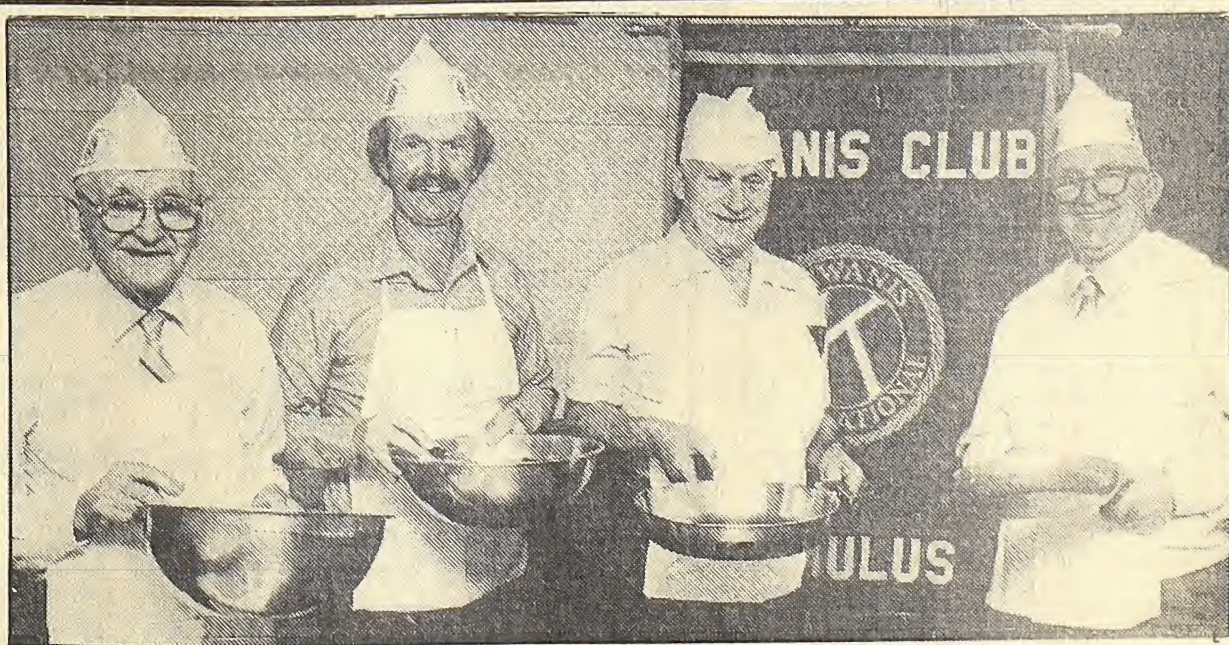

Bedell admitted Monday that the Romulus school district is taxed among the highest in the state, but added that for every dollar spent by citizens in property taxes, businesses contribute $2 toward school funding.

Money from the millage would be used to repair several leaky roofs, cracked sidewalks and gravel parking lots, as well as to remove asbestos, Bedell said. Prior to the millage request, a needs list was requested by Bedell from each school principal. What returned was a comprehensive listing of hundreds of grounds and maintenance requirements.

"It's important to protect the millions of dollars we have invested in our buildings," said Bedell. "If the millage isn't passed, certain programs will lose out and eventually staff will be cut."

"But even if the millage is passed, times are going to be tough in the next few years," he added.

Drain commissioner suit angers city officials

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

"He may feel like the lone ranger, but we're the ones left in the dark," said Romulus Councilman Barry Baumann about Treasurer John Lewkowicz last week after Lewkowicz joined a class action lawsuit against the Wayne County Drain Commissioner without any discussion with the mayor or the council.

Lewkowicz was the only private citizen among the 11 local communities who filed suit against Commissioner Charles Youngblood in Circuit Court on Friday, according to the attorney retained in the action, Harry Ellman.

The suit charges that Youngblood wrongfully charged and illegally assessed drains in Wayne County from 1982-86, and that he grossly mismanaged the department.

As evidence of the mismanagement charge, the suit contends that "the state average for cleaning a mile of rural drain is in the range of $30,000 per mile; whereas, in Wayne County, that cost is $150,000 per mile."

According to Curt Boller, a county commissioner, the amount of illegally assessed money could total $2.7 million. The share of money expected to be returned to Romulus if the lawsuit holds up in court is about $80,000, Lewkowicz said.

It was during the Monday night meeting of the Romulus City Council, however, that members raised questions about the legality of Lewkowicz's representation in the lawsuit. Lewkowicz justified his appearance in the suit by claiming to be a private citizen representing the interests of his fellow residents in Romulus.

"Who is going to pay the legal fees?" demanded Noah

Bergeron during a heated discussion, where members of the council requested answers from Lewkowicz about the consequences of his actions. Council members were also concerned about possibility that Lewkowicz' participation in the suit might affect a similar lawsuit which the city is reportedly pursuing.

Another suit, called Lewkowicz vs. Youngblood, was filed by Ellman in 1976 and settled out of court three years ago with $650,000 awarded to the six participating communities. The Romulus share amounted to $146,899. Ellman received one-third of the total amount.

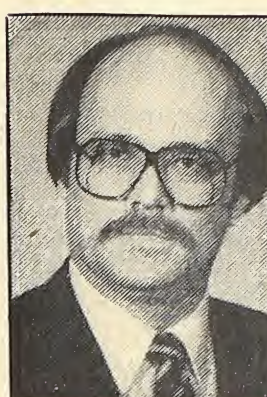

"The city council went on record July 7 not to join this suit at that time," said Councilman Ellis Pennington. "We said we would seek legal advice from the city attorney. I will not allow, nor will I sit still, while John's attorney takes 25-30 percent of our citizens' money for

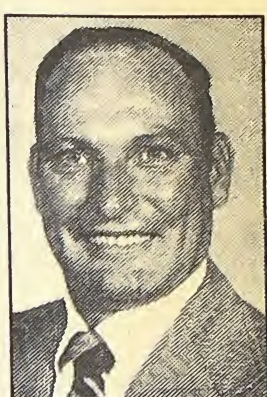

Beverly McAnally

Barry Baumann

Noah Bergeron

Ellis Pennington

their representation by John in this case," he stated adamantly.

"If that lawyer takes one dime of my money while my governing body did not represent me ... well, if I have to go the attorney general, I will," said Councilman Noah Bergeron. "It is the job of the city council to represent its citizens."

"You should have consulted with the mayor or the council before you pursued this matter. Our attorney's fees are considerably less than those of Ellman's. Romulus residents have been misled into thinking their council is not doing its job," said Baumann.

"Under the freedom of information act, we have filed a suit to subpoena all records from the drain commissioner. No one has established which drains need to be cleaned nor how much the illegal charges have been - including Ellman, who does not have this information nor has he requested it," said Mayor Beverly McAnally. "It's not as though we aren't doing anything."

"I entered this lawsuit as a private citizen representing all the citizens of Romulus," said Lewkowicz who added he has not paid any retainer fee to Ellman. "If any monies are won, the city will get that money with no strings attached."

Cocaine seized

Last Monday, shortly before daybreak, Romulus Police arrested a suspected Detroit drug dealer in the parking lot of a motel on Wickham Road.

Police confiscated a moderate amount of "crack" cocaine, $3,000 in cash, a 1985 custom van and a stolen handgun.

Later that day, Oct. 20, in 34th District Court, Michael Anthony Davis, 33 of Park-grove Street in Detroit, was arrested and charged on two counts - possession of cocaine with intent to deliver and felony with a firearm.

Bond was set at $30,000 which was paid in cash within the hour, according to Romulus police who said Davis has a past record and was convicted of a similar charge several years ago. The preliminary examination has been set for this Friday in 34th District Court.

The penalty for firearm charge is a mandatory two years and for the possession charge, four years.

Police acted on a tip from a hotel security guard and made the arrest about 6:30 a.m. According to Mark Jagodowski, general manager at the Holiday Inn, the suspect was observed changing parking spaces and driving around the lot for several hours.

"The hotel reported a suspicious occupied vehicle cruising the parking lot," said Lt. Ken Kraus.

"The responding officers made contact with the occupant and observed some suspected narcotics in the vehicle and arrested him," Kraus said.

The type of cocaine seized is called "crack," the most pure form of cocaine, according to Kraus. "The impurities are removed and the end product is a chunk of cocaine which is easy to handle and usually smoked," he added. This "crack" was professionally packaged in small pipe size amounts individually wrapped in plastic and heat-sealed. The exact amount of the seized "crack" has not yet been determined.

"The amount was considered more than enough for personal use," he said.

As the result of a recently enacted state law, property seized and obtained as a result of or used during a drug transaction is forfeited. Last year, Romulus police confiscated $20,000 and a Pontiac Firebird which then became property of the police department. The forfeited goods are only to be used in future drug investigations. "Just like Miami Vice," said Kraus.

"I don't see a real change in drug activity. I would say that the increase in Romulus is about the same as every place else," said Kraus.

"Crack has been in Romulus a long time," conceded Chief Charles Wilmoth. "But as the result of a tip, we caught a suspected drug dealer with 'crack cocaine.' As people start calling us more, we'll be more active. They are our eyes and ears."

Eagles triumph

After three consecutive losses with the Willow Run with only two victories, Coach Norb Glover's Romulus High Eagles exploded for a 32-6 triumph Friday night.

"We finally put it all together," said Glover who has been frustrated over his team's previous performances. "The defense was there when we needed it, and the offense played the way I knew they could. It was a boost this team definitely needed."

The Eagles got on the scoreboard in the first quarter when quarterback Luther Shannon and Anthony Russell combined for a seven-yard touchdown pass. It was the first of four TD passes that Shannon tossed for the evening. However, Romulus's extra-point attempt was foiled.

Willow Run moreover came right back and scored after the ensuing kickoff on a 30-yard run by Asher and Glover must have thought, "Here we go again."

No, coach, not this time.

In the second quarter, with the score deadlocked at 6-all, the Eagles struck again behind the accurate throwing arm of Shannon. He connected on a 15-yard scoring pass to tight end Jason Williams to break the knot for good and give the Eagles a 12-6 halftime edge to protect.

Romulus got a pair of insurance touchdowns in the third quarter as Shannon and Williams again combined on an eight yarder, and Williams capped an outstanding evening with a sensational 85-yard punt return for a touchdown, turning the game into an Eagles rout.

A Shannon-to-Michael Ross 12-yard TD pass accounted for the final score in the fourth period with Luther going in for the two point conversion.

Shannon was on target for a phenomenal 17 of 19 passes which included a career best four TD tosses. He also contributed 60 yards rushing. The offensive line stood the Flyer test thanks to Ron Murowski, Steve Anderson, Jeff Bird, Traver Asher, while defensively, the Eagles got exceptional efforts from Alex Rodgers, Tony Greca, Ed Miller, a freshman nose guard.

Romulus will take a 3-5 overall record into Saturday afternoon's (1:30) game with neighboring Belleville.

The Annual Romulus Public Works and Police Auction beckoned hundreds of bargain hunters from Romulus and beyond. And they brought their pocketbooks. By the end of the day lucky bidders had carted off the few remaining items, and the city was $49,847 richer. Bicycles, tools, guns, computers, cars anything and everything were sold to the person who bid the highest. Pictured in the top photo is Ken Brown who works at Osborne Cement in Romulus. He stands next to the old 1941 pumper he just bought. The old truck was the first to be owned by Romulus Township. Pictured at the right and below is Colonel Ken Kezell in action. Police receiving complaints of a loud party in progress.

Officers at the scene reportedly discovered that a teenage party was being hosted in the back yard of Thomas and Carol DeBolt and later noted in separate reports that a large, loud and noisy party was in progress where at least 100 youths were drinking and carrying on.

A "mini riot" then broke out, which resulted in several injuries on both sides and 18 people arrested. Two persons were charged with malicious destruction of property as a result of several smashed police car windows, and one Romulus police officer had his arm fractured when it was struck by a flying object.

Lisa Geise, 15, at whose home the party was given, called Associated Newspapers the day after the event and said police had come by once and told everybody to quiet down. "Fifteen minutes later, the cops barged in and raided the place. They started a riot," she explained.

"Greg Geise, received a broken nose, Chris Graumon lost her baby that night after she was elbowed in the stomach, and Randy Tyra, who has a wooden leg, was beaten up by three or four cops who smashed his head on the kitchen table and broke the table. He was bleeding and passed out."

"I told the police I would go peacefully," she continued, "but was dragged from under my parents' bed. They handcuffed me and I wasn't doing anything."

"My mother was even arrested," said Geise whose parents were home and reportedly "sleeping" at the time of incident.

Helen Miteff, 17, who attended the party, said Ray Demarest was rushed to Ann Arbor Hospital by helicopter that night as a result of injuries he received by police. Her boyfriend, Rex Stinson, 19, was also reportedly beaten up and spent all night in jail with handcuffs. "He told the police that he broke both wrists last year," said Miteff who added that no drugs were found by police and the keg of beer was empty at the time police arrived at the scene.

Lt. Ken Kraus of Romulus rebutted the report, saying, "We received all kinds of calls that night. The parents' neighbors were happy to see the police. Cops were outnumbered by revelers 10-1, and females were jumping on the backs of police."

"Realistically, it was just a drunken orgy," Kraus stated.

Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks said Monday that she was "furious when I read that the article said that Romulus has condoned police abuse for several years."

"We will not tolerate lawlessness or brutality," added Councilman Barry Baumann. "But our officers should be able to defend themselves. It's unfair that the community has to suffer with their negative image of our city. This gives the entire community a black eye."

Mayor Beverly McAnally said she had not as yet been served with any legal papers regarding the incident.

dan's dogs

The Phil Donahue program recently had an hour devoted to dogs and cats, their owners and treatment by the American public. It was a most entertaining program. In case you happened to miss it, here are some highlights of that show:

Samantha Khary, a pet therapist (who also happens to be able to talk to animals and understand what they, themselves are saying) pointed out that owning a pet brings a stabilizing effect to a neurotic family. She mentioned that it is now supposed to be a new concept to believe that animals have feelings and are actually intelligent. We agree with that, completely.

by dan morris

In a previous article, we mentioned the therapeutic value of owning a dog or pet of some kind. It was mentioned then, as well as on the Donahue Show, that in a test of 100 senior citizens, 70 percent of them felt healthier once they brought a pet into their home. Pet ownership is said to reduce heart rate, lower blood pressure and bring about a longer life span. There must be a lot of truth to the fact that thinking about someone other than one's self is an important factor in reducing sickness and stress. How can we take time to feel sorry for ourselves and concentrate on our own troubles if we are unselfishly tending to a devoted and loving animal?

Now everyone is, can be, or would want to be completely affluent. Those who can afford it can now purchase dog houses (to be placed inside the home) worthy of royalty. Another guest of the Donahue Show was a designer of custom-made dog homes. The highest priced one was $10,000 and resembled Tara from "Gone With The Wind." There was a $3,600 "temple" for cats. People are anxious to bring beauty to their pets and to honor them with a home within a home. The lowest priced home was a paltry $37, but the intention when buying that one more than the $10,000 one was the same: a gift of love and appreciation.

Airport fire re routes ground traffic

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus firefighters were called to assist the Metro Airport Fire Department when a fuel tanker exploded and disrupted traffic in the air and on the ground early Saturday morning.

"Flames shot up in the air about 100 feet and a vent blew off and landed 250 feet away. The driver escaped injury," said Nancy Mooradian, spokesperson for the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

The potentially dangerous situation occurred about 8 a.m. when the drive shaft on a Butler Aviation tanker broke and began to lose the 4,700 gallons of jet fuel it was carrying.

"The drive shaft broke and kept spinning. It busted a hole in the tank and the fuel caught fire when it poured out," said Romulus Assistant Fire Chief Bob Pesenye who, along with two pumpers and about nine other Romulus firemen, assisted the entire Metro Fire Department. Together, more than 20 men from both departments labored for more than two and one-half hours to extinguish the blaze.

The sheriff's department received assistance from the Michigan State and Romulus police and helped direct the "monumental traffic problem" which resulted.

Traffic was blocked throughout the duration of the fire on Rogell Drive, the only access road to the airport and many travelers walked from I-94 to their terminals, a distance of about one mile. At least 50 vehicles were illegally parked in an effort to reach their terminal destination. Air traffic was delayed for 45 minutes and several passengers missed their flights.

"The tanker was completely scorched. Travelers took their luggage and trudged through the rain to their terminal. But overall, the situation was handled very well," said Mooradian.

Canton sewer ban could stall development

Canton Township officials are concerned about how bountiful development in the community will be affected by the ongoing battle township trustees are having with the Department of Natural Resources over sewer problems. "If you were a developer, would you want to invest in Canton right now?" asked John Preniczky, a township trustee. First class corporations and major employers "are the kinds of businesses I don't want to see scared away from Canton," said Trustee Larson. "I think we've been doing some very good development in the township," said Trustee Loren Bennett. He would not like to see that development slowed, he said.

Township Clerk Linda Chuhuran was of another opinion, however. "My personal feeling is if we slow down development it gives us a chance to sit back and reevaluate," she said. Recently a group of township residents complained to members of the Planning Commission about development in the township. The residents did not want to see more homes built in their neighborhood. Although Chuhuran's opinion places her on the same side as residents who oppose more development in the community, she joined her colleagues on the board in denouncing action taken by the DNR last week against Canton.

Cookbook entrants being accepted

Calling all bountiful bakers, chefs, cooks, crock potters, outdoor grillers, indoor grillers or stove-top 'survivalists' - the 1986 Associated Newspapers Holiday Cooking Contest is upon us. In the second year, the contest pits area gourmets against amateur chefs to see who can come up with the most tasteful, tantalizing, not-necessarily fattening creation for the holidays. Acting as one of the judges once again this year will be Associated Newspapers cooking columnist Chef Larry Janes. Deadline for entry is Nov. 12. The winner will receive a $50 gift certificate to a first-class restaurant in the area. All entrants are potential winners, however, as many of the recipes will be published in the Second Annual Associated Newspapers Holiday Cookbook. Send the recipes, along with your name, address and phone number, to: Associated Newspapers Holiday Cookbook, P.O. Box 578, Wayne, MI 48184

House is haunted

Halloween comes only once a year, but when it does, Frankie Jean Clemens and her daughter, Dianne, are ready for it. For even though the two have long since graduated from the trick-or-treating stage, that doesn't stop them from making the unofficial holiday one to remember for children and grown-ups alike who happen to pass their way. Clemens, who lives at 10534 Jackson in Van Buren Township, has made an annual ritual of thoroughly decorating her home for the night before All Saints Day, and it has caused others to take notice. So elaborate is the decorating scheme that last year alone more than 350 children made a pilgrimage to the haunted shrine, and the numbers appear to be growing more each year. For a widow like Clemens, the fun is not in the decorating procedure itself, but rather in the shrieks and squeals of children who are fortunate enough to have a look-see. So popular has Clemens' home become, in fact, that children have come from as far away as Saline, Ypsilanti, Taylor, Trenton and Wayne. "Being able to make children happy is something that really makes me feel proud," is the personable lady's only response.

Belleville High School Player of the Week
In the past decade Belleville High has not figured in any high school football championships. But things are changing for the Tigers thanks to players like Greg Hardmon, who combined with quarterback Steve Ostrowski on a 52-yard touchdown pass that almost stopped defending Wolverine "A" Conference champ, Fordson. Hardmon is being honored this week as Belleville's Player of the Week.

What is Baby Bottle Caries?
It is destruction of a child's teeth caused by prolonged use of a bottle filled with anything other than water. When a child is put to bed with a bottle, the sugars in milk, formula, juices or pop remain in contact with the teeth for a long period of time causing decay. Destruction can occur in only a few weeks causing pain and fever from infection.

Low-interest rates change spending

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

The great American credit card is undergoing a certain amount of change these days, at least in the local area.

Area banking officials are reporting that many consumers are "wising up" to the 20-percent and higher interest rates of the plastic answer to the compulsive buyer, a trend that has many financial institutions touting a new "consolidation" form of personal loan.

Charlotte Shay, loan manager at the Wayne-Westland Federal Credit Union in Wayne for the last 16 years, said that a new wave of personal loan applications has hit the local lending institution. That wave has perhaps been made bigger, she admitted, by low-interest "discounts" being offered by the credit union. However, the current consumer trend to consolidate their debts cannot be overlooked, she said.

Currently, the Wayne-Westland credit union is offering personal loans with interest rates as low as 10 percent over a one-year period. Those rates, coupled with the desire by consumers to "consolidate," has resulted in a 54-percent increase in personal loan requests from 1984, Shay said.

"One of the biggest reasons people want to consolidate is to get rid of all of those payments every month," Shay said. "They want to have only one payment instead, and the low interest rate is making it possible."

A stronger economy and greater number of employees in the workforce have to be cited as obvious reasons for lower interest rates, Shay explained. The Wayne-based credit union was one of the first financial institutions in the area to reduce the lending rate on VISA accounts, she continued, and the credit union is a front-runner in the personal loan interest rate competition, she continued.

Who has the lowest rates?

With the consumer urge to consolidate their credit in full force, many local lending institutions are taking advantage of the trend by introducing a wide range of low-interest loans.

What follows is an approximate evaluation of the lending rates of the major banks and credit unions in the areas served by this newspaper. These rates, however, are subject to change due to the ever-flecutuating prime lending rate.

BANK	HOME IMP.	NEW CAR	USED	PERSONAL
Fixed rates	15%	CoAmerica 9.9%-60 mo. 8.9%	10.9%	13.25%
Variable	11.5%		9.25%	15%*
Fixed rates	13.5%	Michigan National Bank 11%-48 mo. 9.4%-48 mo.	11.75%	13.5%
Variable	11.5%		14.25%	15%*
Fixed rates	14%	National Bank of Detroit 10.5%-48 mo. 8.5%-48 mo.	11.25%	15%*
Variable	none		9.25%	none
Fixed rates	14%	Wayne Bank 11%-48 mo. 9.25%-48 mo.	11.5%	15%*
Variable	none		10.25%	none
Fixed rates	13%	Wayne-Westland Federal Credit Union 12%-48 mo. 8.5%	13%	10%-1 yr.*
Variable	12%		12%	13%-2 yr.*
				15%-3 yr.*

* This rate is always a fixed rate.
 Used cars, in this study, were based on 1985 cars. Cars older than this generally have a higher interest rate for loans.
 Secured person loans (fixed rates) with collateral posted.
* Unsecured personal loans (fixed rates) with no collateral posted.

NOTE: This chart is intended only as an unscientific comparison of a few major financial institutions in the area. Because of fluctuating interest rates, these rates may have changed without notice. As most banks and credit unions offer a wider variety of lending than we have presented here, this graphic should be used only to compare the lending rates of area banks, without regard to one institution being "better" than the other.

"We were one of the first to lower our VISA interest rate. We put it down to 16.9 percent, and a lot of other banks followed us," Shay said. "We are pretty proud of that even though some of the other banks have even gone one-half percent lower in their rates."

And although credit card consolidation is the topic on most every banker's mind these days, Shay said that credit cards are not loosing favor in the public eye. While predicting that the plastic cards will be around well into the 21st Century,

Shay said that the consumer population is becoming more interest-rate oriented, a trait that is sure to add fuel to the credit card competitors' already-boiling fires.

"I think credit cards are going to always be here for the compulsive buyer. I think that with the consolidation, the public is becoming more interest-conscious," Shay said. "I think people are going to keep those cards low enough to pay them off each month."

"But I don't think they will ever stop using them."

the week ahead

Federal Reserve statistical releases indicate that capacity utilization continues to be at a very low level and shows little sign of near term recovery. However, financial market data indicate that the money multiplier is growing at a 3-4 percent annualized rate. This would indicate that the public holds adequate funds to support a growing, robust economy, but there seems to be a lack of enthusiasm.

Buyers of interest sensitive securities, bonds and utilities, seem divided on the future direction of interest rates. Gold and silver traders have reduced their selling efforts, but are not rushing to the buy side.

For this week, the short-term traders will be selling to short-term traders. Intermediate-term traders and long-term traders will seem to hold present positions, or at best, balance their buying and selling programs. . . in other words, possible churning!

For this week, the markets may have a lot of activity, but make little price progress. Early in the session, some selling pressure may be evident, but this may be a function of order processing. The stability in secondary issues and small capital-ized stocks will add strength to the market late in the session. At this point in economic development, the market seems evenly divided on the future direction of interest rates, market prices

and inflation.

Our election favorites

Next Tuesday, you the voter will be asked to exercise your civic duty and head to the polls to cast yet another vote of leadership for the various federal, state and local offices. The task won't be an easy one considering the absence of any real issues in the incumbent-dominated campaigns, and the list of names might be confusing and even overwhelming.

We, as your community newspaper, recognize the difficult, yet important, task remaining before each one of you. We recognize the voter apathy which is sure to be present in this off-year election, yet we once again feel compelled to sound the red alarm urging all eligible residents to vote and to play a key role in our democratic form of government.

This article could become one added to the growing pile of editorials urging increased voter participation, and it could also be a primer lesson in American government. We could bombard you even further with political hoopla, propaganda and election-year drivel, and we would still leave you in a confused state-of-mind with no clear-cut candidates to run your national, state and local government for the next two, four, six or more years.

As your local newspaper, we have presented you with the facts, the profiles, the issues and the lack of them. We have given you both sides in this election, and we have done so without adding our own political choices and opinions. We have completed those tasks, and we feel we have performed them well.

Today, the editors and writers of this publication want to give you another service – our choices. Having covered elections for what seems to be an eternity, having analyzed the issues, worked with the candidates, debated and listened, we feel we are in a unique position to present to you a list of qualified, dedicated and loyal individuals who will serve you and represent you well.

We are not supporting one party or the other. We are not predicting the outcome of the election. And, we are not strengthening any political popularity contests. These are the people we feel will serve you the best in your government. These are the candidates we feel will strengthen the American form of government, and these are the candidates we hope will be victorious on Nov. 4.

We urge you to join and support us in our selections.

For governor, our vote goes to incumbent governor, ☒ James Blanchard. Clearly, Blanchard has demonstrated a keen ability to run the state in a promotional and economically-sound manner. We feel confident that four more years with his leadership will propel the state into a even brighter light, a light which will make the citizens proud to live here.

For the various state offices, we support incumbents ☒ Richard Austin for secretary of state and ☒ Frank J. Kelley for attorney general. Both of these men have the experience and generally smooth operation of their departments under their belts, and both should be awarded another term.

For the 15th Congressional District, ☒ William D. Ford is the obvious choice taking into consideration his commitment to education and his federal activeness which has proven time and time again to be an asset to his local constituency. In the 17th Congressional District, ☒ Sander Levin should be re-elected based on his vast political background and proven dedication to his position.

In the state Senate, we support ☒ Robert Geake of the Sixth District due to his 14 years experience in the state Legislature and his dedication to improving the state business climate. ☒ George Hart has our nod in the 10th District. In the 12th District, ☒ William Faust has our resounding support by finishing miles ahead of the others in the race to provide good civic service. Faust should be emulated by every civil servant due to his fine record of constituency support and loyalty.

In the state House, ☒ Lynn Owen has our vote in the 21st District, ☒ William Keith in the 33rd, ☒ Gerald Law in the 36th, ☒ Jim Kosteva in the 37th and ☒ Justine Barns in the 38th. Three of these candidates – Keith, Kosteva and Barns – stand out as exemplary state representatives who have continually served the citizens they represent and have brought much-needed political reform that has directly impacted the local area.

For the county commission, we give our vote to ☒ Edward McNamara for county executive, ☒ Milton Mack in the 11th District and ☒ Kay Beard in the 12th District. All three of these county leaders, although each possessing unique political biases and ideals, have the know-how, the desire and the potential to bring a good name back to Wayne County. Our support in them is a vote in support of the future of the new county government and the future of our businesses, style of living and image.

As for the ballot proposals, we urge the following:

☒ Yes on Proposal A. The amendment, in our opinion, merely completes the transition of the library of Michigan from the Department of Education to the legislative branch of government. This process began in 1983.

☒ No on Proposal B. This amendment would give the state Legislature the power to approve or reject the administrative rules proposed by state agencies. We feel that these agencies need to have some degree of autonomy in order to effectively serve their clientele. This amendment, if passed, would jeopardize that autonomy.

☒ Yes on Proposal C. This amendment would enable the State Officers Compensation Commission to have jurisdiction on determining the salaries and expense allowances of the secretary of state and attorney general. Since this commission already sets the salary and expense account limits for the governor and several other state offices, we feel it is only fair to have this body govern the expenses of all state elected offices, including the secretary of state and attorney general.

☒ Yes on Proposal D. An affirmative vote on this proposal will enable the dismantling of the office of the Wayne County Drain Commissioner. The evidence of the misuse of this office has been more than enough to shed light on the potential the position and department head have for the public to be cheated through unethical and inexcusable political ploys. This office should be abolished.

Finally, in Westland, we urge the residents to vote ☒ Yes on a 2-mill tax increase proposal which will allow the city fire and police departments to function effectively. Westland and all other cities were caught off guard this year by the elimination of federal revenue sharing. More than $180,000 was cut from the city budget for police and fire protection, funds that must come from some other source to ensure the continued quality of police and fire protection to all Westland residents.

Although we feel the internal feud between the fire fighters and police on the millage proposal has taken some of the attention away from the real issue – the need for funding for police and fire protection – we feel it is imperative that these lost monies be replaced. This 10-year tax increase will accomplish such a task.

Keep the faith

Each day, we read the daily newspapers and listen to television and radio reports of conflicts around the globe. We hear of tragedies ranging from nations warring with nations to family members shooting each other.

We shake our heads at the constant reports of dead and injured around the world...such sins of mankind against mankind we usually find distressing and repulsive.

From my personal level of experience, I sometimes wonder why there are not shootings in offices, city council chambers, traffic jams, in restaurants and schools, government offices, senate and house chambers and anywhere else you find people subject to conflict. Radical thinking? I wonder.

Friends, every day I am more convinced of my conclusion that we have reached an all-time high in lack of empathy for our fellow man and self-centeredness. I hear people arguing their positions without listening to anything the other side might be dealing with in their efforts to cope and survive.

"Their" point of view is right, their problems all-important, "they" have feelings and needs – it's everyone else that is preoccupied with their own petty and inconsequential problems. What are their problems compared to mine, people seem to shout with their actions.

Okay, there are heartwarming moments when characters demonstrate the compassion of people to contribute to the betterment and helping of others. In the day-to-day struggle for the survival of the human race, however, well...I worry.

The lack of trust people exhibit for each other is now legendary. People love to hear the sound of their own voice, but they fidget and squirm and glance away when others plead to be heard. People are rude, crude and dishonest.

Now perhaps this is too much reality for some of you. It's tough to deal with for "positive thinkers" but fear, hatred, violence, racial conflict, prejudice, sickness and poverty won't go away by ignoring them.

We arm ourselves to the teeth, hire guards, buy attack dogs, install alarm systems in our homes, businesses and cars. Why? To try and prevent our property from becoming another statistic. What the hell is wrong with us? Perhaps the devil is loose in the world, perhaps we are too taken with our own selfish interests and unconcerned with the future of humanity.

I don't have any answers, friends, only questions, lots of questions. Where are we headed, good people? Am I all wet here? I hope so, but I fear not.

Our society would make the old wild west look like a Sunday School picnic in terms of violence. Can we turn the corner on violence in America and the world?

Okay, I'd like to say here, like our evangelical friends, "Christ is the answer," but I'm afraid there are a couple of billion people out there who play by a different set of rules than does, say, Billy Graham.

But there are still a few things I can believe in.

I believe we will by God's grace, pull back from the brink of nuclear holocaust.

I believe there will be a better tomorrow.

I believe in the basic nature of my fellow man.

I believe that America will survive.

I believe that right and good will triumph over evil.

But, no, I do not believe in the tooth fairy. I believe in you and in me. Let's keep the faith, remember that "they" have a side in all disputes, and that we can make it a better world, one day at a time.

See you next week.

Band parents tell sad tale

To the Editor:
Tonight my wife and I are very proud parents. Our daughter, as a freshman in Romulus Senior High School, was accepted into the Romulus Marching Eagles. To be accepted into that elite band meant going to band camp for one and one-half weeks before the start of school. Everyday for eight to nine hours, we saw her learn how to march, and get a few routines down pat. With that little amount of training, they marched in their first parade, the Ypsilanti Heritage Days Parade. Pretty impressive. Says a lot for the kids and for their instructor, Henry James.

We saw our kids practice from 6-9 p.m. on the night before every home football game. If they weren't doing well with a routine, they stayed past 9 p.m. until they mastered it.

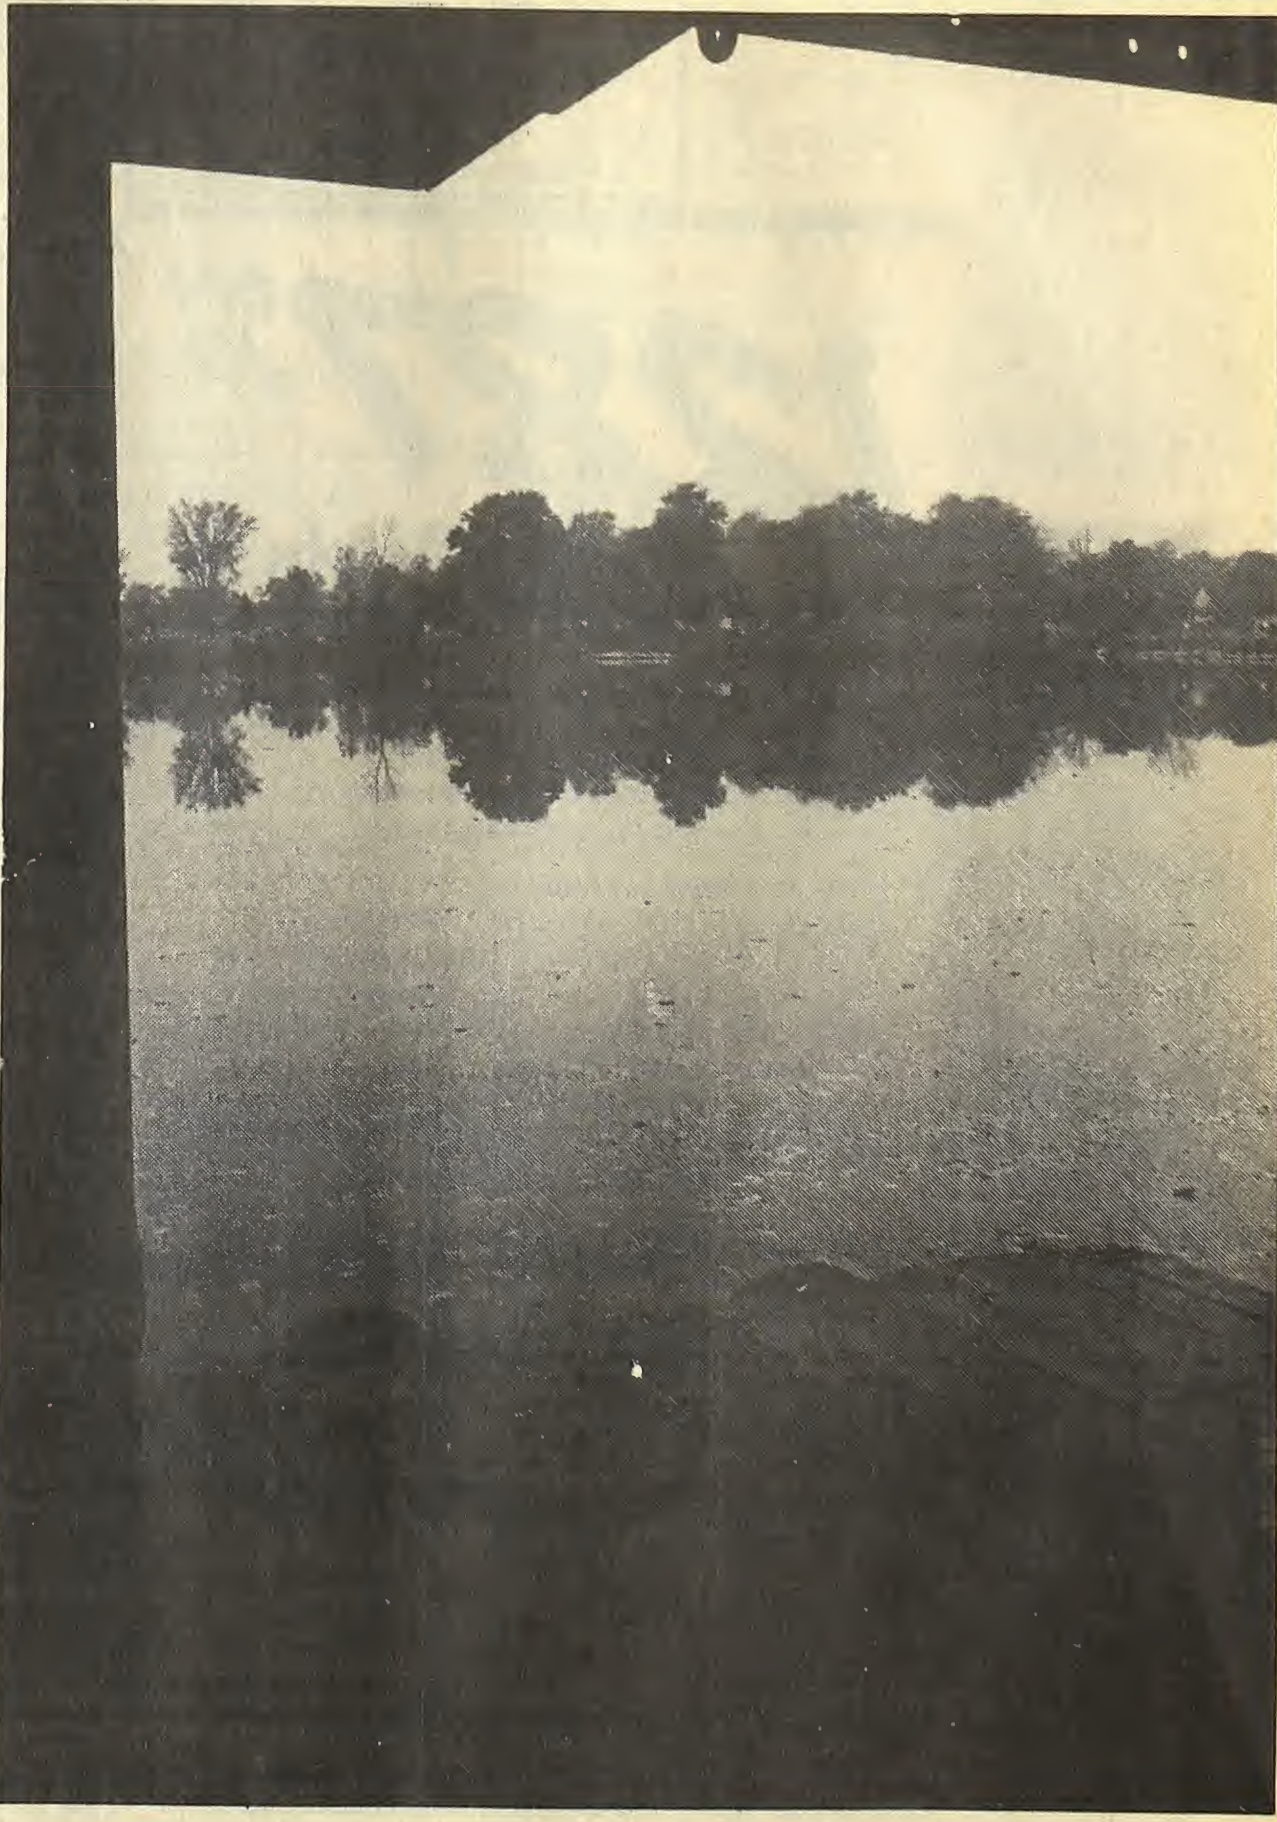

When it came time for the New Boston Apple Fest Parade, we saw our kids in the rain (under a tree for one hour getting soaked to the skin) and not one kid complained. They marched that parade with their heads high and pride in the unit.

We saw our kids get ready for the highlight of the year, homecoming. Practice the night before was so cold, the kids commented that their instruments would probably stick to their lips, but not one kid left or complained.

The day of homecoming, our kids were so excited about the parade, and also because of the

the local news in brief

Schools get funding

WESTLAND – State Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) announced recently that state aid payments will be coming to local school districts. The Michigan Department of Education makes state aid payment to local school districts in August, October, December, February, April and June.

Faust also said that several of the local school districts obtained federal Title I funds to pay for special programs.

The state aid payments included: Inkster Public Schools – $1,311,695; Romulus Community Schools – $1,076,553; Wayne-Westland Community Schools – $6,469,642; and Van Buren Public Schools – $1,397,571.

The federal Title I funds were given to: Romulus Community Schools – $85,623 and the Wayne-Westland Community Schools – $10,756.

college joins 'salute'

VAN BUREN TOWNSHIP – A flag was raised Monday at the Wayne County Community College, 9555 Haggerty Road, to commemorate "A Salute to Higher Education." The flag raising was one of several events planned throughout the week.

The "Salute to Higher Education" is a part of National High Education Week which began on Monday.

Park gets state money

WESTLAND – State Sen. William Faust

(D-Westland) announced last week the awarding of a $25,000 grant from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to the city of Westland for improvements to the Sam Corrado Park on the north side of the city.

The grant will be used to build a play center, a sand play area, slide, jungle gym, fort and swings. The 10.5-acre park was acquired from the Livonia Public Schools last year through the efforts of Corrado, a well-known community activist.

Skaters need help

WAYNE – The Wayne Parks and Recreation Figure Skating Program is conjunction with the Wayne-Westland Community Schools and the Wayne Civitans are asking for help.

The group is in need of ice skates for the Therapeutic Skating program. For information, call Gordie Harris or Janis Ryschinski at 721-7400.

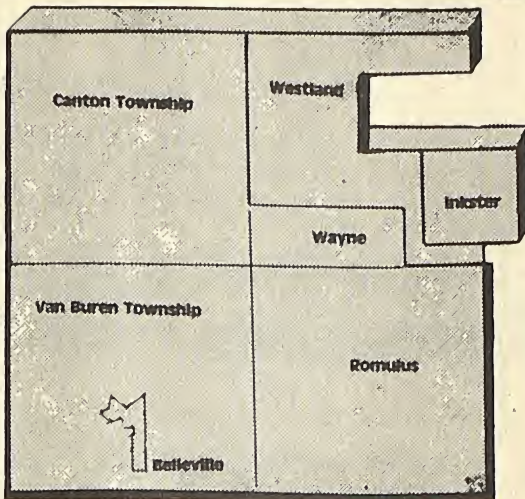

Elderly get extra care

CANTON TOWNSHIP – The Canton Care Center is offering a support group for care givers to the elderly. The group meets the first Wednesday of each month.

For information, call 397-0600.

Church is 'bagging it'

BELLEVILLE – The annual collection of clothing and canned goods is being sponsored Nov. 1 and 2 by the Belleville Seventh Day Adventist Church.

Bags will be left on doorsteps throughout the city Nov. 1 and retrieved Nov. 2. Last year, more than 26 large food baskets were distributed to the needy.

For more information, call 697-0554.

Church plans auction

WAYNE – St. Mary's Catholic Church will host the annual Christmas auction at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 29 at the church, Third Street and Michigan Avenue, Wayne.

A raffle and refreshments will be included in the list of activities for the day.

Program entices teachers

Several recent developments illustrate the new importance of scientific and technological education for the Michigan economic health.

As our leading scientists and researchers are being officially honored, a new science test has been added to the yearly essential skills exams given statewide to certain grade-level students. And the state Legislature is considering new laws that would provide financial help and incentives to math and science teachers.

In the years that the majority of Michigan jobs were based on the automobile industry, the state economy prospered as long as car sales remained high. But a few years ago, the major financial difficulties for the auto makers had serious statewide repercussions. As more and more workers were unemployed, consumer spending plummeted. The state was forced to go deeply into debt to pay unemployment benefits and other forms of assistance.

The solution was for the state to help develop new job-creating industries, and to attract investors from other states and countries. These new industries, many of them high-tech or scientifically centered, have created many new jobs that are not affected by the ups-and-downs of the auto makers. And they will prove to be a healthy source of revenue for Michigan in the future.

It is important to encourage education in math and the sciences, to ensure that Michigan workers will have the necessary skills for the new industries.

The state House of Representatives has been considering bills that would encourage more math and science teachers to work in Michigan. Under one proposed law, a college graduate who teaches math or science in Michigan for one to five years would have up to 100 percent of his or her state student loan forgiven. Another bill under consideration would give a tax break to a business that gives a math or science teacher a between-school-terms job.

YOUR BILL OF FARE FOR NEXT TUESDAY: Democratic Ticket – George L. Yapple for Governor, Republican Ticket – Cyrus G. Luce of Branch County for Governor, Prohibition Ticket – Samuel Dickie of Albion for Governor. Greenback Ticket – No candidates for state offices. Candidates for Wayne County offices only.

Died: William Emerick on October 19, 1886. He was one of the pioneers of Washtenaw County having come from Ontario County, New York with his parents in 1832. By faith he was a Baptist and a man of sterling integrity and uprightness. He leaves a large circle of friends to mourn for him. The deceased was a brother of Mrs. Isaac Crane of Belleville.

At the old folks gathering at the residence of R.A. Savage Monday to celebrate the 77th birthday of Mrs. Luna Cooper, there were present the following old people: William Crawford aged 80 and wife aged 77, Mrs. Betsy Smith aged 82, Mrs. Sarah Tucker aged 84 and Mrs. Lucy Carpenter aged 75. Mrs. C's son from the northern part of the state whom she had not seen for several years was also present. Mr. C. came 200 miles from his home with a horse and buggy and did not make his presence known to his mother until he surprised her by walking in with the friends who had gathered. Thus it was a double surprise to the old lady.

Rev. McLean is expected here next Sunday to hold Episcopal services. He was obliged to return to Chicago again last week and so was not here last Sunday as announced. (Episcopal services were conducted Sunday afternoons in the Baptist Church at the corner of Third and Main.)

The Greenback meeting Monday night was a success after the 15 or 20 men got back around the stove so the stove could do what the speakers could not.

A minstrel show will be given at Music Hall Thursday evening November 4th. It is chock full of fun. Keep watch for bills.

time factor, many of them didn't get to eat. No problem. After the parade, a Hospitality Hour was planned for all parade members with food and drinks provided by the home economics classes.

The parade was a beautiful success. Everybody arrived at the junior high and prepared for the events there.

It was at this point of the evening, that my wife and I became very sad parents. The kids were tired from marching. They were thirsty and a couple of them commented how good the food was going to be. Then we heard their band leader, Henry James, have to tell them they were invited to the Hospitality Hour, but all they could have was punch, because somebody made a decision that there wasn't enough food for everybody. Everybody turned out to be all the other parade participants and a lot of them had their moms, dads and brothers and sisters with them. They all had roast beef, ham, cheese and all the trimmings. While our kids sat drinking their punch. I almost cried when a band member asked if she could have a cookie.

Henry James, and everyone of you Marching Eagles, my wife and I bow to you. Keep that pride, enthusiasm, and spirit that you showed us tonight. You will be slapped again, but please don't let a few inconsiderate and uncompassionate people get you down. It takes a pretty special group of people to be knocked down and snap right back up the way you kids did tonight. We salute you.

Perfectly predictable

Psychic has 'ghostly' foresight

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

If you were outside the realm of suburban Detroit and on the outskirts of civilization lives a mother, housewife and career woman. Visitors to her home in rural Romulus would never cast a second glance at the woman's bi-level house or her 1980's style of living.

And few, if any, would quickly surmise that this same woman is also a psychic, a psychic whose instinctive ability to foresee coming events and predict and change the course of human destiny has astounded many onlookers and implanted a sense of fear in many of her relatives.

Nancy Pitel is that woman, although she shuns any mention of being supernatural or eccentric. Instead, Pitel attributes her ability to peer into the human mind and reach past the barriers of the mystical as only an "extra sense," one that everyone has the chance to develop. "Everyone is psychic. Most people have had hunches and intuition sometime in their lives. That's all psychic ability. If you work on it, you can develop it," Pitel said.

Pitel abhors any association with witchcraft, superstition, black magic and other Halloween-type anecdotes. And, even though her wedding anniversary purposefully falls on Oct. 31, Pitel dubs the day of happy hauntings and ghostly goblins only as a day of fun and not one that should be feared or cast aside.

Pitel never imagined herself as being any "different" in her childhood years even though she envisioned events happening prior to them taking place. In fact, it wasn't until about age 10 that the Southgate native thought that perhaps her own abilities were not widespread human traits.

"I've always been like this. I never thought I was different," Pitel explained. "I guess it was when I was 10 that I realized that other people didn't talk about the things I talked about or see the things I saw."

Pitel reported that on many occasions she would see her father coming home before he was actually there. If he was destined to bring small gifts to the family, Pitel would foresee it. If he was bringing home the groceries, Pitel already knew.

"I used to be able to see my father get out of the car and walk up to the house. Later, he would come home, and it would be exactly as I saw him," said Pitel. "One day I was telling my mother that I was really happy that we were taking care of the neighbor's cat. I loved that cat."

"My mother asked me what I was talking about because we were not taking care of any cat. A few days later, the neighbor came down and asked us to take care of the cat while they were away. That's when I realized I was a little different."

A closet psychic by nature, Pitel has never made much mention of her unusual abilities to her friends or relatives for fear that she might be termed "eccentric" or mentally deranged. Even horse-race bets between her uncle as a child in which Pitel always came out the victor didn't reveal her hidden abilities, she said.

But, that extra sense has posed a wealth of problems—and answers—for the Romulus resident since she left home to start a life of her own. One relative, she said, wanted to use Pitel's abilities to make a success story for himself at the race track while calling Pitel "crazy" the rest of their time together.

"He thought I was strange. He thought I was bizarre. He thought he could use (my abilities) to make money at the track," said Pitel. "He never took the time to sit down and listen to what I was saying and he never took the time to understand."

As for her parents, Pitel said her father, a devout German Lutheran, would never "accept any part of this," while her mother, a Christian scientist, thought nothing of it.

Her children and her husband, who have learned to believe in her extra sense, she continued, have found her abilities to be obstacles when trying to cover something up or deceive her. Nevertheless, raised eyebrows and skeptical looks continue to be the rule for Pitel when she discusses her psychic phenomenon with outsiders.

Although she admitted that the ideas of prophesy and possessing knowledge of the human inner mind are ideas which are traditionally not accepted by most religions, Pitel would be the last to consider herself anti-religious. Religion, she said, is an integral part of her beliefs and abilities.

Becoming a psychic can be easy

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

Want to become a psychic yourself and have the ability to foresee events in your own and others' futures? According to Nancy Pitel, a self-proclaimed psychic, mastery of the skills of predictions is dependent only on the ability to develop certain traits already present in each and every human body.

"Anyone can be psychic if you work and develop it," Pitel said. "Probably the most important thing is to be able to meditate."

Meditation—the ability to erase daily events and thoughts from the mind and go deep into the inner mind—is a skill that takes time to develop, Pitel said. However, once developed, she continued, it is the key to unlocking all of the psychic abilities in the body.

"Staring into a candle flame is an excellent way to meditate," Pitel said. "You actually have to relax your mind and just stare at the flame. As the thoughts come in your head, just let them go by," said Pitel.

To become completely relaxed and to delve into the human mind takes about five minutes for the experienced meditator, Pitel said, while the beginner could take up to an hour to become completely relaxed. Candle flames are not the only meditating tools, she continued pointing to crystal balls and meditation music as equally useful.

"I like to meditate every day. It's necessary for me because I have a very active mind," Pitel explained. If I don't rest it and take a break, I get very 'hyper'. I get grouchy.

"I like to meditate in the morning and at night. When stress hits, I resort to meditation."

Once relaxation hits, Pitel said, the person meditating will begin to see faint images or nothing at all. The Romulus resident explained that many times she sees a forest and the wind blowing softly against her face. Other meditation episodes result in a visit to outer space, and still others end in total darkness.

"The way to tell if you are meditating correctly is by how you feel. If you feel completely relaxed afterward, then you've done it correctly. If not, you're not meditating," said Pitel.

In addition to staring into an object and relaxing her mind, Pitel often times holds metal objects—either her own or those of others. By doing this, Pitel said, she can see images about the person's past, present or future. "It's kind of like a television being on without the sound. It's kind of hazy, but it has a focal point."

But meditation isn't the only time that Pitel is able to delve into the unknown. She reported that she has seen ghosts on several occasions as well as images from days gone by.

"There are several different kinds of ghosts. One is the spirit of people, someone who has already died," Pitel said. "They will come and visit sometimes."

"Another type of ghost isn't really a ghost but is a emotional imprint. I once saw a young girl crying over a grave in a graveyard. Anytime an event has occurred that has had a really emotional impact, it leaves an image in the surrounding area."

The third type of ghost, she said, doesn't really resemble a ghost, but actually looks like a living human being.

"My husband has seen his first wife who died in a car accident. And every time he goes to get into his car, the dome light is on. At first it kind of 'freaked' him out. We now think that (the dome light being on) is from his first wife."

Ghosts or no ghosts, Pitel was adamant in saying that everyone possesses psychic abilities. And, with a little practice and persistence, everyone can acknowledge those abilities and use them to their own advantage, she said.

However, the key word, she continued, is practice and belief in the idea of psychic intuition.

"Everything comes from your mind. You don't need all the props they have out there. All you need is to be able to still your mind," said Pitel. "Animals can see things before they happen and I think men could at one time also."

"Then man became too intelligent, and he lost his psychic abilities. But you can't run on just intellect. You need intuition as well."

Halloween costumes take on new look

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

If the Halloween costume you're donning this season doesn't resemble the likeness of Ronald Reagan or any "pretty, sexy hero," you're probably in luck.

And, if that same costume does bear a slight resemblance to Pee Wee Herman, Rambo or Ninja, you are almost a shoo-in to be the life of the party.

Those words of wisdom come from Lee Cox, owner of "Anything Goes Creations" in Wayne, who has been designing Halloween costumes for more than 20 years. Cox, who now only makes costumes on the side for close friends and relatives, said that definite trends are evident in the Halloween costumes year after year.

"I've probably done only about 35 costumes this year, but I have had hundreds of calls," said Cox. "The big one this year is Pee Wee Herman for the adults and Ninja (Japanese clothing made famous by the "Karate Kid") for the kids."

While the old-time favorites of Minnie and Mickey Mouse, Dracula and the Roman toga wearers never seem to be out of style, Cox reported that the 1980s Halloween costumes have seen a bit of a change from the pretty and proper disguise of years past to the "totally bizarre"

"You are always going to have your standards—your vampires, Dracula and that—but this year we're seeing more punk rockers, Madonnas, Elvis Presleys," Cox remarked. "Five years ago everyone wanted to be pretty and sexy. Now it's really off the wall. Now they are looking for the more risque."

The costume designer also noted that the mid-20-year-old crowd of years back has today been replaced by another group at area Halloween parties. And surprisingly, she said, it's the older generation that are currently heavy into the disguises.

"It's a really funny thing, but it's the older crowd that is into all of this now. A lot of college students are still big on Halloween, too," said Cox. "A lot of the people from the older crowd want to imitate Sylvester Stallone. They have their chests bare, bullets, leather belts. Some of the guys have even bought artificial hair for their chests," she said with a chuckle.

What's not hot this year? Despite what some election-year politicians might want you to believe, Cox reported that politicians are far and few between as far as the Halloween costume business is concerned.

"It's really surprising for an election year, but we haven't had one request for them yet. In years past we have had people going as Reagan, Nixon and Carter, but not this year," said Cox.

And as for herself, Cox plans to be decked out in her favorite Halloween garb this Friday as she has done each year for as long as she can remember. The longtime Wayne resident will temporarily change into Minnie Mouse on that day—with a little help from her costume and makeup—enabling her to take part in one of her favorites seasons of the year.

But don't expect Cox to come to your Halloween party in that same outfit next year. The costume designer reported that she takes a great personal pride in a new creation each and every year.

"I like to create different things. I don't like doing the same thing."

Librarian's position is one of challenge, change

It would be a rare day, indeed, for anyone to find Inkster Librarian Nancy McCarbery working in one place for very long. From Canton Township to Livonia to Southgate, and then over to Inkster, the personable bookworm can generally be found somewhere dishing out novels to children or telling gripping tales of fate.

But McCarbery is not necessarily in this position by choice. Rather, she is searching for that inner peace that only a full-time position can bring.

McCarbery is just one of many dedicated mothers who left the work force several years ago to raise her children, only to find that she no longer had a job waiting for her when she returned. But instead of turning bitter over her employment woes and souring on the American labor system, McCarbery happily takes an optimistic attitude with her from part-time job to part-time job until some full-time work in her field opens up.

It is not an easy position to be placed in, to be sure. But McCarbery publicly chuckles about her employment situation and admits that it could very easily be worse.

"At least I am doing the job that I want to do," she says from her temporary home at the Inkster Public Library on Inkster Road. "I know that I am not here on a permanent basis, but that doesn't stop me from enjoying the atmosphere and the people here."

"Besides, I know I will find a full-time job sooner or later. I just hope it's sooner."

McCarbery was in the market for a librarian's job at the beginning of the school year when Elaine Woods suddenly left the city of Inkster to take a position as head of the Wyandotte library system. Quick as a wink, McCarbery snatched it up, and she now enjoys a daily routine of filing, reading and entertaining Inkster children from her post behind the Inkster City Hall.

Though realizing that her days as a librarian there are numbered until December, when the city will pick a new librarian from among several tested applicants, McCarbery fits well into her role as head of the city's bookshelves.

"I really like the conditions here and focus on people

the people who come here," she said. "I think one of the best parts of this job is just meeting all of the people."

McCarbery originally came from East Detroit, but gained her formal education at Eastern Michigan University, where she graduated with a bachelor of science degree in 1961. She followed that up by obtaining a master's degree in library science from the University of Michigan in 1972.

A 19-year resident of Livonia, McCarbery resides with her husband of 23 years, her three children - Christian, 18, Megan, 15, and Kirk, 11 - and a black Labrador retriever named "Shadow." She is chairman of the 'Friends of the Library' program in Livonia, which is currently in the midst of helping build a new library there.

ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS: How did you get started in this business?

McCARBERY: I guess I first became interested in being a librarian when I helped in the library while in junior high school. After I graduated, I worked as a school librarian and taught first grade in the Nankin Mills School District - which was later divided up between the Wayne-Westland system and the Livonia System - until I quit to raise my children. When I was ready to come back, there were no more jobs left.

ANP: What happened then?

McCARBERY: Well, I started substitute teaching until I finally saw an ad for a substitute librarian in Canton. I took that job, and have been subbing all over the area for about the last three years. I've worked in Canton, Southgate, Livonia and now Inkster.

ANP: Have you heard much about your predecessor, Elaine Woods?

McCARBERY: Yes. She dropped in Thursday night after work. She's the school librarian in Wyandotte now and she's got three school libraries to take charge of. I guess she's going to be a hard act to follow, what with everything she's done from the people that I have heard from. She started a 'Birthday at the Library' program, where kids are encouraged to spend their birthdays here. She started up 'Spooky Stories' - which I have to tell next Thursday night, by the way (laughs) - and she started up a Story Time program and had movies here every Tuesday at 4 o'clock.

ANP: How do the Inkster programs compare with other cities in terms of turnout?

McCARBERY: It's really hard to say. It goes to extremes. For instance, we had to cancel a program in Livonia once because there weren't enough children. And yet in Canton, the day we say registration starts they are lined up out in the hall, and some of the parents get rather angry when they can't get their children in.

But this is a nice place to work as far as stress is concerned. At other libraries I have felt more stress and I've seen more stress in other people. But not here.

ANP: Is the library business getting better in Inkster?

McCARBERY: Oh, I think they are picking up. We've got a real strong 'Friends' group here that helps promote the library, and the library board is very interested in what goes on.

ANP: Are there any new programs that you hope to have implemented while you are here?

McCARBERY: Oh, I don't know. I think I just want to continue what Elaine started. I've got a lot of clean-up work to do from years and years ago that invariably never gets done - things like inventory and paperwork.

ANP: What kinds of things do you like to do in your spare time, if you even have any?

McCARBERY: Oh yeah, I have a little bit. I like to garden and I like to go camping. We have a travel trailer and take the kids along. And I like to read - obviously.

ANP: What kinds of things does a librarian like to read?

McCARBERY: Anything I can get my hands on. If it's a magazine and it comes to my house, I read it. My husband always complains because it takes me forever to plow through the papers every day.

Say cheese

Easy 'cheesing' brings smiles

By CHEF LARRY JANES
ANP Special Writer

I really pride myself for not waiting until the last minute to do my holiday shopping. But it never fails. Usually, I find myself running out at the last minutes, waiting in lines, dealing with traffic and finding a parking space, only to settle for something that I really didn't want to get in the first place. Sound familiar? Not this year! No way.

I've just about finished my shopping and am putting the final touches on some very special gifts that not only will be fun to give but equally as tasty to receive. This year, I'm making my own cheese.

For years the idea of making cheese was fairly low on my list of priorities. With several cheese shops in my neighborhood with inventories so complete it would take years to work through their selections, I saw no reason to embark on any experiments of my own.

If you're ready to make an herb-flavored cheese with something like the strength and character of the original, but at bargain-basement prices, pay attention. A lot of milk went under the bridge in the past few weeks, but at last I was satisfied. My cheese recipes are by no means exact duplicates of the famous French variety, but I like them as well, and I can alter the herbs to suit my whim or tastes of guests. Through some minor experimentation, I can even make cheese in a low-calorie version for when my conscience is on the rampage. Made with non-fat milk, the cheese is more tart but still delicious.

Soft cheeses can be made by cooks with no more than kindergarten skills. (Where have you heard that line before?) The production of hard cheeses required a minimal investment in equipment and time so for the sake of space and future investments, this article will deal solely with the tasty soft varieties.

Actually, all cheeses have some things in common. To begin with, they all start with soured milk. Because the pasteurized milk readily available doesn't sour easily, your homemade cheese will need a lactic starter. I tried, with great results, a cultured buttermilk since it already contains acid-producing organisms. The fresher the buttermilk, the better. Don't use any more than "10 days old."

The next step is to allow the milk to coagulate. Often, this is accomplished with the addition of rennet, though some cases, the milk will coagulate on its own. For most cheese, the solidified milk is then cut into cubes to reduce the watery whey and form solid curds. Eventually, the curds will be drained and pressed into cheese. Heating the milk at this point accelerates the removal of the whey from the curds and helps firm them. After a final draining, the soft cheeses are ready.

Before beginning, it is imperative that all your equipment is impeccably clean. As far as equipment is concerned, you can use stainless steel, glass or crockery for best results. Stay away from aluminum and coated pieces as a potential interaction between cultures and the finish might be detrimental to the finished product. Make sure there are no cracks and foreign matter in the bowls because bad yeast can develop easily in the warm environment necessary for cheesemaking and can give your product an "off flavoring".

Of course, the only true way of telling how the final product stands is by tasting. So, with crackers in hand and a cool, crisp day on the horizon, play a little in the kitchen and begin with these guaranteed easy soft cheesemaking steps.

Of course, when giving these tasty treats as gifts, include the recipe (let them see how much time and energy you spent) but try not to spend more on the container than what you paid for the cheese. PORT AND WALNUT CHEESE (Makes 1 cup)

1 cup creamy cheese
2 tablespoons powdered sugar
2 tablespoons port
chopped walnuts

Blend together cheese and sugar. Using a table knife, swirl port through cheese making streaks but not blending in completely. Form into a ball. Wrap and chill for 4 hours. Before serving, roll in chopped walnuts.

CREAMY CHEESE (Makes 2-3 Cups)

1 quart half and half
½ pint whipping cream
2 tablespoons cultured buttermilk salt (optional)

Step 1 - allow 36 hours

Heat half-and-half and whipping cream until lukewarm (ninety degrees fahrenheit). Stir in buttermilk and pour into a bowl. Cover with clear plastic wrap and wrap snugly in a bath towel. Place in a warm area. After 36 hours, it should have the consistency of soft yogurt. When it no longer flows in the bowl when tilted, go to step 2.

Step 2 - Allow 12-18 Hours

Rinse several lengths of cheesecloth to remove sizing. Line a colander with the cheesecloth and place in the sink. Gently pour curdled milk into the colander and allow to drain 15 minutes. Fold cheesecloth over the top and place the colander in a bowl. Cover completely with plastic wrap to make an airtight seal and place in the refrigerator for 12-18 hours.

Step 3 - Allow 36-48 hours

Spoon drained curd from the cloth into a bowl and stir in seasonings suggested below, or if you want plain cream cheese, salt lightly. Shape into balls and wrap in rinsed cheesecloth. Place again in a colander and cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate for 36 hours or longer, depending on the firmness you desire.

Step 4

When you're ready to unveil your masterpiece, turn the cheese out onto a plate, peel off cheesecloth and enjoy. Tightly covered and refrigerated, the cheese will keep for about 5 days, but I'll bet it won't last that long.

Try these seasoning variations with the recipe listed above:

ROMANIAN CHEESE (Much like the tangy Kajmak)

2 cups feta cheese
2 cups unsalted butter
1 cup creamy cheese

Combine all ingredients in blender or processor and process until smooth.

LIPTAUER SPREAD (Makes 1½ cups)

1 cup creamy cheese
¼ cup unsalted butter
3 tablespoons sour cream
1 tablespoon minced onion
4 anchovy fillets, chopped fine
2 teaspoons drained, chopped capers

1 teaspoon hot paprika
1 teaspoon caraway seeds
1 teaspoon dry mustard

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Beat with mixer till fluffy. (great on black bread)

LEMON-ORANGE DESSERT CHEESE (Makes 1 cup)

1 cup creamy cheese
3 tablespoons powdered sugar
1 teaspoon fresh grated lemon peel
1 teaspoon fresh grated orange peel

1 tablespoon orange juice
chopped almonds

Mix together all ingredients except almonds. Beat to blend well. chill. Roll in almonds before serving.

Whether it be a peaceful candlelight dinner for two or a hectic lunchtime for 500 hungry youngsters in summer camp, Jeannine Klay of Wayne is prepared.

She says its nothing to stretch a recipe for five and feed a crowd of hundreds. "It takes a bit of a knack but once you have the idea, no problem," she noted.

Klay retired this past spring after teaching home economics in the Wayne-Westland School System for 15 years. She headed the department for several years and helped initiate the curriculum and the building of a modern kitchen at John Glenn High School. Her entire teaching career spans 25 years.

She and her husband Roy were born in Illinois. They raised their two children in Wayne. Their daughter has followed her mother's example and teaches home economics for Wayne-Westland Schools.

TEXAS POTATOES

2 pounds frozen hash browns
1/2 cup diced onion
1/2 cup melted margarine
1/2 tsp. pepper
1/2 tsp. salt
1 can condensed cream of chicken soup
1 cup sour cream
1 cup grated cheese

Mix the above ingredients together. (reserve 1/2 cup cheese)

Put in 9 X 13 baking dish
Mix together 1/2 cup cheese and 1/2 cup corn flake crumbs (or potato chips)

Sprinkle over top of potato mixture
Bake 350 degrees for 30-40 minutes

This recipe is especially good when served with ham.

MICROWAVE PUMPKIN CAKE

Cinnamon sugar mixture
1/2 cup nuts, finely chopped
1 package (18 ounce) carrot cake mix
3 eggs
1 cup pumpkin
1/3 cup oil

Prepare microwave bundt pan by greasing pan and sprinkling with cinnamon sugar and chopped nuts

Combine cake mix, eggs, pumpkin and oil together in bowl, mixing well.

Pour in prepared bundt pan.

Microwave on HIGH 5 to 7 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes before removing from pan. Invert onto platter. Serve with glaze or Cool Whip.

Glaze

1 cup confectioners powdered sugar
1/4 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice

1 to 2 tablespoons milk
Combine all ingredients in small bowl, mix well. Pour over cooled cake.

just married

Zoller — O'Neill

Pamela Judith Anne Zoller of Belleville and Todd William O'Neill were married Saturday, Sept. 6 in a double-ring ceremony at St. Anthony Catholic Church in Belleville.

The 4 p.m. Nuptial High Mass was officiated by the Rev. John J. Mikula and the Rev. Raymond Skoney. Music for the occasion was provided by Sheila Vonk on the organ with Patricia LaCross and Paul Brasseur on vocals. Carrie Cook was the commentator.

The bridal gown was white and satin, high neck gown with sheer yoke and Queen Anne's lace on the sleeves. Her bodice was heavily beaded with pearls and bugles, swirling to a low back covered with beading to make the back view as dramatic as the front.

Her fingertip veil with Queen Anne's lace and crown featured beaded pearls and bori allis with matching applique. The bridal bouquet was made of orchids, daisies, carnations, and red roses with ivy and stephanotis trailing to the floor.

Serving as the maid of honor for the event was Lynne Wisniewski of Canton. Bridesmaids were Bridget Radisovich, Karen Alexander, Jacqueline Burk, Pamela Halton and Marsha O'Neill.

Michael O'Neill, the groom's brother, was best man for the wedding, while groomsmen included Jim Sedlacek, Ted Smolinski, Craig O'Neill and Dean Horiski.

A reception at the hall in Westland followed the ceremony and was attended by about 300 friends and relatives.

The couple traveled to Paradise Island in the Bahamas and now reside in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Todd William O'Neill

Chapman — Bennett

Melissa Chapman of Dodge Road, Romulus, and John Bennett of McBride, Romulus, were united in marriage Sept. 20 in a double-ring ceremony at the First United Methodist Church of Wayne.

The Rev. Dan Wallace officiated the service.

The bridal gown was satin and white, with hand-sewn yellow roses and pearls. The bride wore a pearl necklace and her mother's pearl earrings for the occasion.

She carried yellow roses and baby's breath in her bouquet, all made of silk.

The maid of honor was Susan

McNabb, the bride's sister. Nicole Bennett served as flower girl and Kenny McNabb was ring bearer.

Phillip Stephens was best man for the ceremony while Bill Bennett and Dave Rhodes served as ushers.

A reception followed the service at the home of the groom's parents. Approximately 65 friends and relatives attended.

The two have made their new home in Virginia Beach where John Bennett is stationed in the U.S. Navy.

The bride and groom are graduates of Romulus High School.

Otten — Given

Nancy Otten of South Windsor, Conn., and W. Bandal Given of Romulus were united in marriage Aug. 23 in a double-ring ceremony at the Avery Street Christian Reformed Church in Connecticut.

The ceremony was officiated by Pastor Berton Van Antwerpen. Music was provided by Marg Christians on the organ and Ron Cheesman, soloist.

Matron of honor was Cheryl Nydam with bridesmaid Rhonda Eichen participating in the service.

Alan Currie was best man and Mark Van Oyen served as a groomsman. Ushers participating in the ceremony were David Eichen, George Otten and Robert Otten.

A reception followed the service at the Tabacco Valley Inn. They two traveled to Bermuda for their honeymoon and have made their new home in Grand Rapids.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Otten of Connecticut, is a graduate of Calvin College and is employed at the college.

The groom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Given of Romulus, is also a graduate of Calvin College and is employed with X-Rite Inc.

Murphy — Roberts to wed

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Murphy of Mildred Street, Wayne, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Kathy, to Kenney Roberts. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Roberts of Stieber Street, Westland.

The bride-elect is a 1985 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School. She works at MGM Business Services in Livonia.

The groom-to-be is a 1985 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School. He works at Tom Holzer Ford of Farmington Hills.

The two are planning a Dec. 13 wedding.

Wellmans celebrate 25th

Don and Marlene Wellman of Fletcher Street, Wayne, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Sept. 16 with a party at the Eagles Nest restaurant in Westland. A dinner, anniversary cake and putt putt golf were presented by their sons and daughters.

The two were married at St. Patrick's Church of Wyandotte on 1961. They have raised four children and can today boast of four grandchildren.

Don is a machine operator for General Motors. Marlene is a receptionist for new patients at Associated Physicians.

The two enjoy boating, wood making, bowling, crocheting, canning and playing wallyball. They are members of St. Mary's Church of Wayne.

The Wellmans have lived in the area for 21 years.

Viking triumph

The Vikings of Inkster didn't disappoint a Homecoming crowd Friday afternoon as they staged one of the most exciting comebacks in recent football history. Down 18-0 at the end of the first quarter, Inkster rallied to stun natural rival, Robichaud, 24-18, for their first official win of the 1986 campaign. For the story, turn to page C-2. Playoff berth at stake
Glenn, Wayne meet in classic confrontation

By KEITH A. DeMOLAY
ANP Special Writer

Westland John Glenn and Wayne Memorial have cleared their final obstacles for their fall football classic. The finale will be staged 7:30 p.m. Friday at Westland John Glenn.

After turning back an excellent Livonia Churchill team 17-6 last Friday, the Westlanders remain in the Class A state playoff berth race, while Wayne Memorial cleared its final Wolverine A Conference rival, Monroe, 31-20.

"Wayne is impressive," said Glenn coach Chuck Gordon. "They have a tremendous tailback in Tatum, and Quartuccio is a fine quarterback. Steve Warner leads a very tough defense. We'll have to play a great game."

Wayne Memorial's Chuck Howton pointed to Glenn's 7-1 record as evidence of the club's excellence.

"They (Glenn) have an excellent tradition going for them," Howton added. Excellent personnel. Coaching. They have it against a very good Churchill team," Gordon said.

all together over there. We can't afford to make an error against a team like that."

For the Rockets, the victory over their conference playoff foe, Churchill, put them in a good frame of mind for the "City Championship". They also will be shooting to retain the Wayne Jaycees Fall Classic Trophy.

"We're very excited about the victory because it came

Herb Osterland said he was impressed with Glenn before the game, and after the game. "They have one heck of a ball club. And that offensive line of theirs really is a superb unit."

Glenn's initial drive was indicative of how methodical its attack would be against the Chargers. Running behind an offensive line anchored by Brian Brown, Ed Hyde, and Doug Strehl, the Rockets moved the ball 75 yards in 13 plays for the score. Paul Beasley picked up 35 of his game-high 108 yards and picked up two first downs, including one on an 11-yard run. When Glenn reached the six-yard line, quarterback Steve Hawley went to the air and found Mike Ham-montree in the end zone for the touchdown, the sixth of the season, breaking the record held by Mike Dest, Jim Irwin, and Brad Jennings.

Tony Svaluto added the point-after, and the Westlanders led, 7-0.

Glenn's defense went to work and in three plays had the ball back for their offense. The Rockets moved the ball to the 24-yard line, thanks to Beasley's 20 yards and a fake punt run by Don Sprinkle.

But Svaluto's attempt at a 41-yard field goal fell short and the Chargers took over. Shortly

Wayne is host of girls' swim invitational

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Riverview, one of the powers in the Huron Conference, is the team to catch at the 1986 Wayne Memorial Swimming & Diving Invitational.

The invitational is scheduled for Friday and Saturday at the Wayne High pool. Some of the top women swimmers in the area will be competing in the two-day meet which will also bring together teams from Garden City, Livonia Franklin, Westland John Glenn, Woodhaven, Lincoln Park, Allen Park and Wyandotte.

"We're looking forward to an excellent meet," said Jim McPartlin, Wayne's head swimming coach. "If I would have to choose a pre-invitational favorite I would have to go with Riverview. They have a lot of depth and appear to be the cream of the crop this year."

Friday's preliminaries will begin at 3 p.m., while the finals on Saturday are scheduled to commence at 1 p.m. Tickets are $1 and $2 for preliminaries and the finals, respectively.

In the meantime, Wayne bounced back from its first Wolverine 'A' Conference dual meet loss at the hands of Belleville, to edge Trenton 93-76 before a Parents' Night crowd at Wayne.

The Zebras are 4-1 in the league.

Led by Rhonda Graham and Carrie Basner, Wayne carded eight out of the 11 first places.

Graham won the 200 and the 500 yard freestyle events with times of 2:09.9 and 5:53.9 respectively and also was in the line-up of the winning 400-yard freestyle relay which featured teammates Jacque Trudeau, Jennifer Martin and Vicki King. The relay team was clocked in 4:01.4.

Basner's two wins were in the 100-yard freestyle (59.8) and the 100-yard breaststroke (1:17.5) and she also combined her versatile talents with Trudeau, King and Julie Garlough to win the medley relay in 2:04.12.

Wayne captured the 100-yard backstroke thanks to Dyanne Sweikowsky in 1:11.4 and Vickie King's 27.3 was the best time for the 50-yard freestyle.

The meet was a lot closer than the score indicates, pointed out McPartlin.

Old football foes renew rivalry

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With the Western Lakes Conference phase of the season now history, Livonia Franklin will renew its football rivalry with former North-west Suburban Conference foe, Garden City.

The two former league adversaries will clash Friday night at Garden City High.

After snapping a two-game losing streak at the expense of Walled Lake Central, 11-0, Franklin will take a 2-6 overall record up against Garden City, which is boasting a 4-4 mark.

Garden City is coached by former Westland John Glenn coach, Bob Lusk.

"I feel that they are tougher than a lot of teams we have in our league," said Franklin's Armand Vigna. "They are a well balanced team."

Franklin ended its year of Western Lakes Conference frustration with a 11-0 shutout of Central. Again, Vigna credits the defense for playing a superb game.

And again, the Franklin offense had missed opportunities.

The Pats got all 11 of their points in the second quarter. Mark Kerpet blocked a Central punt that was recovered deep in Central territory which set up the Patriots' first score. Pat quarterback Sean McCusker led his team to the Central two, however, Central buckled down and forced their rivals to settle for a 3-point, 22-yard field goal by Mike Patzsch.

After the ensuing kickoff, Franklin got a second break when Tim Block managed to block a Central punt, the Patriots recovering the ball at the 30.

Two incomplete Pat passes later, Franklin resorted to some trickery that paid off. They attempted a fake flanker screen pass that spotlighted a toss to Chuck Roth who then fired a 40-yard aerial to Frank Dilardi for the touchdown.

With the score now 9-0, Central then committed two offside infractions, moving the ball to the inches marker where Pats' Mike Linenberg was called upon for the two-point conversion.

Franklin had two separate second half scoring opportunities, but the Patriots just couldn't come up with the right formula to hit paydirt.

"The offense didn't move the ball, as it has all year long," noted Vigna who pointed out that the only team to score two TDs on his club this year was Farmington Harrison, the reigning league champ. "If we could have put together some offense, we would have had an excellent year. I feel our offense was as good as any around."

Jeff Kroll and Tim Brahmmer, defensive ends, Chris Parenti and Linenberg, linebackers, again turned in superlative performances for the Patriots.

Parenti, a 6-3, 213-pound senior who has three years varsity experience, is among the leading candidates for all-conference and all-state consideration.

Belleville humbles Ypsi Tankers

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With all-state candidate Karen Kotlarczyk contributing two individual first places and helping the Tigers win the 200-yard medley relay, Belleville disposed of natural rival, Ypsilanti, 113-57, in a non-conference girls' swim meet last week.

After combining with Jennifer Owsley, Susan Duda and Gina Montie to place first in the relay (2:10.43), Kotlarczyk turned in the winning time of 2:09.88 for the 200-yard freestyle. She also touched in first for the 100-yard butterfly (1:10.44). In the 200 freestyle, Christy Sikes placed second (2:22.82), while in the 100 butterfly, Kotlarczyk led teammates Tracy McCormick (1:13.70) and Traci Gentle (1:14.99) to the wall.

Belleville also placed first and third in the 500-yard freestyle with Christy Sikes (6:17.96) and Bambi Gross. The Tigers went 1-2 for the 100-yard backstroke thanks to Jennifer Owsley (1:14.17), Gina Montie (1:14.63), and Marcy Krogal (1:19.17).

Kristan Howard's 1:23.62 performance in the 100-yard breaststroke provided the Tigers with their only other first; teammate Wendy Kobish finished third in 1:28.41.

The Tigers 400-yard freestyle relay team of Jennifer Powell, Susan Duda, Bambi Gross and Wendi Giza had the second best time, (4:26.33).

Belleville also got a second from Rachel Snure's effort in the 200-yard individual medley

(2:49.40), while Melanie Merritt and Marcy Kogal were second and third respectively for the Tigers in the 50-yard freestyle. Belleville divers Holly Druker and Linda Korgal amassed 178.10 points and 146.60 points respectively - good for second and third places.

Coach Sam Vice-

ky's tankers are sporting an unblemished 4-0 Wolverine 'A' Conference record and also are 10-1 over-all on the season. Vicky pointed out the team's progress has been excellent and that Sikes and Howard turned in their best times thus far this season in the meet against Ypsilanti.

Cage programs offered

The Inkster Parks and Recreation Department is offering a wide range of sports activities and programs during the fall and winter season.

Beginning Saturday, Oct. 25 through Saturday, Dec. 27 from 10 a.m. until noon, all elementary aged children may participate in such programs as basketball, arts & crafts, physical exercises and a wide range of other interesting programs.

There is a $10 registration fee for the programs, however, parents can save 10 percent of the fee if they pre-register their children.

For further information, telephone the Inkster parks and recreation department at 728-7530 or stop by the recreation offices.

Inkster stuns Robichaud for 'perfect' homecoming victory

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Inkster left its best for last, and for natural rival Dearborn Heights Robichaud.

After spotting their neighbors three first quarter touchdowns, Coach A. C. James and the Vikings came back and won a thrilling 24-18 decision before their homecoming crowd.

The Vikings did it in the final four minutes of the game with a stunning 46-yard touchdown pass pulled off by quarterback William Knoxs to T.C. Winn that broke an 18-all deadlock.

Up to that point, Inkster was fighting an uphill battle.

"This is the biggest victory of the year for us," James said. "I am proud of these kids because they didn't quit. They came back and won it."

Robichaud's Bob Yauck said he "was stunned."

"After our kids jumped out in front 18-0, I didn't expect that kind of finish. Again, you have to give Inkster a lot of credit. A lot of teams would have folded after trailing by 18 points. But they didn't."

It was Robichaud which caught the Vikings napping early as James Gee took the opening kickoff and behind a wall of blockers raced 85-yards for a touchdown. Then, what proved to be the first of three first quarter conversions failed.

After an exchange of punts, the Bulldogs cashed in on a Viking turnover. Inkster fumbled in its end zone and Robichaud's Gordon McDuffie recovered for the touchdown.

With the score 12-0, the visi-

"You have to give Inkster a lot of credit for not quitting. Most teams that fall 18 points behind would have folded."

tors wouldn't quit. Five minutes later they tilted the scoreboard again in their favor as Carl Brown scored from the seven after the Vikings fumbled on their own 10.

But, Robichaud was struck with a rash of turnovers and before the malaise ended they had committed eight of them.

Inkster got on the scoreboard in the second quarter when an alert Steven Stubbs cashed in on a tackle behind the Robichaud goal line for a two-point safety. And that seemed to ignite the Vikings. Before the half ended, Lorenzo Terrell came through with a punt return which he dashed back 56 yards for a touchdown.

The two rivals split at halftime with Robichaud garnering an 18-10 lead.

But, the fired-up Vikings came back in the third quarter to tie the margin on Sean Hayes's eight-yarder off-tackle. He tied the score at 18 with his two-point conversion.

That's how it stood until the final four minutes when the Knoxs-to-Winn pass sealed the victory for the hosts and dealt the visitors an unbelievable Suburban Athletic Conference setback.

It was the first time in four years that Inkster had beaten their arch-rivals.

Inkster travels to Saginaw Friday night to take on non-conference foe, Buena Vista, while Robichaud brings the curtain down on the 1986 season also on Friday at Muskegon Heights.

Harriers advance to state

Westland John Glenn will be represented at the Class A state cross country finals by two runners and Wayne Memorial will have one at Flint.

The finals are scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 1 at Brookwood.

Dan Liedel, who has had an outstanding season for Coach Richard Gordon's Rockets, finished 10th in 16:34.0 to qualify for this weekend's finals.

Westlander Pauline Eldridge also earned a shot at state accolades after finishing 19th in the field. She was clocked in 20:20.

In the meantime, Wayne Memorial's Derrick Allen also survived the regionals and will move on to the finals thanks to a 13th place finish at the regional. He crossed the finish line in 16:37.4.

"I feel we have had a pretty good year considering that we are rebuilding the team," Gordon said. "Although we are making progress, we are a long distance from our goal."

Farmington captured the Western Lakes Conference cross country championship and is among the top favorites to win the Class A state title.

Wayne meets Glenn in classic fall grid confrontation before halftime, Svaluto got a second chance when the Rockets moved the ball down the field behind fullback Gary Cloud, who picked up 14 yards including 11 of them on a first down run. Even Hawley got into the act with a 15-yard run that netted Glenn a first down. But the Chargers held and Svaluto booted a 28-yard field goal for a 10-0 halftime lead.

Churchill came out in the third quarter and moved the ball 33 yards behind tailback Keith McGorisk and two passes from quarterback Kevin Bebb. But one pass was tipped into the hands of Hammontree for his fourth interception of the season, at the 18-yard line.

Then it was three yards and a cloud of dust as Beasley rushed for 46 yards and four first downs and Cloud picked up 11. Finally, Hawley went to the air and found Hammontree in the end zone for the score. Svaluto's point-after made it 17-0.

It was up to the defense to hold Churchill for the victory. Mark Bauschat's interception stopped an effort and the inside work of Strehl detoured another Churchill threat.

Churchill averted the shutout

"Glenn's record speaks for itself. They have a lot of tradition. Excellent coaching. And there's the natural rivalry between the two schools that brings the best out of both teams. We're looking for an excellent game."

with a 9-play, 45-yard drive as fullback Jim Naif ran for 34 yards, including the final one for the TD, with 33 seconds left in the game.

The Junior Varsity Rockets defeated Walled Lake Western, 22-11, in their WLAA playoff game as Bryant Satterlee ran for 202 yards and three touchdowns and Casey Killingbeck ran for the two-point conversion.

In the meantime, Wayne

Memorial posted its second consecutive victory and upped its record to 5-3 with a 31-20 conquest of Monroe on "Senior Night" at the Zebras' home field. It was a "wild game", to say the least.

The Zebras returned the opening kickoff to their 35 yard line. On the sixth play from scrimmage, Darren Tatum, senior running back, broke a tackle and streaked 45 yards into the end zone. The reliable toe of Doug Quartuccio made the score 7-0 with four minutes gone in the quarter.

Monroe took the ensuing kickoff and proceeded to march its way into the Zebra end zone on their first offensive possession. A three-yard dash by Greg Hudkins climaxed a 15-play, five minute drive. A run for the two-point conversion was halted, leaving Wayne with a slim 7-6 lead.

Wayne's offense moved the pigskin to the Trojans' 20-yard stripe before bogging down. The key play in the drive was a 41-yard pass from Quartuccio to Tony Robertson. On fourth down Quartuccio booted a 36-yard field goal for a 10-6 Wayne advantage as the first quarter drew to a close.

The visitors from Monroe came right back, however, and in only four plays found the goal line. A 32-yard pass from Dave Pillarelli to Hudkins posted the points on the scoreboard. A successive two-point conversion toss from Pillarelli to John Malik upped Monroe's advantage to 14-10.

There was no further scoring in the first half though both teams continued to move the ball. A Lewis Davis interception thwarted one potential Trojan drive. Leo Trayner nullified another Monroe scoring threat with his end zone pass theft.

The Wayne defensive squad came alive after the second half kick-off. Defensive end Fred Horne had a quarterback sack for a nine-yard loss. On the very next play senior co-captain Steve Warner picked off a Trojan aerial and rambled 42 yards to paydirt. Quartuccio successful conversion gave the Wayne Zebras a 17-14 lead with only four minutes gone in the third quarter.

Jody Caruana, the fine senior linebacker, gave the home squad excellent field position with his fumble recovery at the Trojans' 37-yard line.

A pass interference call moved the ball to the 12-yard line. Two plays later, Tatum, behind Jason Waugh's crunching block, reached the end zone from four-yards out. The convert made the tally 24-14 in favor of the home team.

At the onset of the fourth stanza, Monroe launched their only scoring drive of the second half. Mike Powell plunged one yard for the touchdown which cut Wayne's advantage to 24-20. Trayner broke up the two-point conversion pass attempt.

It only took the Zebras two offensive plays to restore their lead. Tatum, with a couple of key blocks, dashed 54 yards for his third touchdown of the evening with a little over six minutes remaining in the contest.

Quartuccio again converted the PAT and the scoreboard showed Wayne 32, Monroe 20.

Coach Chuck Howton was able to substitute freely in the game's remaining moments.

Huron fumbles away chance to win a 'crazy' one, 28-27

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It just wasn't in the books for New Boston Huron Friday night.

Leading all of the way until the final minute, Huron lost a heartbreaker to Carlson 28-27 when Mike Nitzkowski grabbed an air-borne fumble and raced 76 yards for a touchdown. The coup de grace came in the form of running back Jerry Bliznik's two-point conversion which lifted Carlson over the edge with seconds left in the game.

"It was really a heartbreaker," moaned Huron Coach Tom Labeau. "It was definitely one of the hardest losses I have been involved in as a coach or our kids have played in. We should have won this game, but we didn't do so."

Huron looked as if it would have no problem with their final conference rival of the year. The Chiefs, with quarterback John Umin in command, marched the opening kickoff to the Carlson two where Umin picked off Steve Bartlett for the TD pass. Then, Jon Tackett kicked the extra point and Huron led 7-0.

The margin increased to 13-0 early in the second quarter when Umin again put together a sustained drive thanks to his pinpoint passing. At the six, he handed off to fullback Len Ziegler who plowed through the Carlson defenses for the six-pointer. Tackett failed to get his chance for the conversion as the snap from center went aoul.

Carlson however countered with the next two TDs. Bliznik scored his first of three touchdowns for the evening. He found paydirt from the three, with the PAT failing. Later in the quarter he also scored from the five, again Carlson failed to add the conversion.

Just before the intermission, the Chiefs added to their advantage when Umin fired an eight-yard strike to Rich Gubini, making it a 21-12 ballgame. Then, Umin and Bartlett combined for the two-point conversion.

The verdict appeared clear in the third quarter when Huron picked up what proved to be its final TD as Umin and twin brother, Jim, clicked on a 26-yard scoring pass-run play. The kick for the extra point was blocked.

Carlson needed what appeared to be an insurmountable 16 points in the final period to win. But miraculously they got it.

"It was a spectator's game," said Labeau. "A lot of crazy things happened. Unfortunately we lost."

Five costly turnovers also helped to make it a nightmare for the Chiefs who have to contend with Tecumseh in their season finale on Friday. They are on the road for the last game.

Tecumseh is traditionally a very fine football school. They are also well coached and it is difficult to win over there," Labeau said. "I look for another thriller."

Tackett paced Huron ball-carriers with 53 yards on 11 attempts, while Umin managed to complete 13 of 21 for 204 yards - his third 200 yards or better passing game this season.

Player of the Week

Doug Strehl

Doug Strehl, senior captain, is one of the major reasons why Westland John Glenn is in contention for a state play-off berth. The 6-2, 240-pound tackle anchors the offensive line and was instrumental in the Rockets' 17-6 victory over a highly-touted Livonia Churchill team last week. For his outstanding efforts, Doug was selected as "Player of the Week."

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)

You're ending the old idea of what you have always looked for in a relationship, and you're forming all new rules and requirements. This has intensified everything. Your goal is idealism, and that's good, but do allow a little human frailty! Words can really hurt you this month, because you've heard those words before. Don't forget that. You have real opportunity to make some extra cash. Don't be afraid to take a risk on you!

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)

Your social life can be in real conflict with your most personal life. This is where you either intensify your relationship, or make a big space. Be careful how you handle your money and other people's finances. Avoid all temptation to fudge on the book work. By the end of the month, all paperwork is reviewed, so be careful. If your partner is ambitious (and you are too), you'll do very well as a couple. If not, that will be the real basis of any problems.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)

Complications at work can get to the point of legal threats. It doesn't have to be power plays, but you will have to stand behind your words and be able to back it up with documentation. If you can't do that, you may be in trouble this month. Partners may surprise you with some unexpected help or support of some kind. You'll also find a new person entering your life who is a one-person cheering section for you. Isn't that wonderful!(!?)

CANCER (June 22 to July 22)

Love life sees the result of the stress that is now dissipating. You're a lot more fun to be around, and you're exciting. Your creative juices are flowing freely. As long as you can try new ideas and have fun with what you're working at, you'll be a source of "happy" for all those around you. If you don't, you'll be sad and drop-ey-eared. You may end an old connection this month. Don't be sad or upset. Just release it.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22)

What you want and what your partner wants may be two different things this month. Someone from the past is strongly affecting you this month. Try to close off that dead issue, because it drains your energy. Parents (and those who parent you) are highlighted. Someone is outnumbered. But, remember, not everyone who is outnumbered is a "good guy." Sometimes there is a good reason they are all by themselves. Leave 'em there.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22)

You may be at odds with co-workers this month. Sometimes people push on us because they see more potential there than we do. If they didn't have faith in our ability, they wouldn't expect so much. Why not go that extra mile, the extra stretch? You can do it, and your confidence will be increased because of it! A goodbye message toward the 16th is pretty much final, and it indicates a new cycle for you.

rose mary near

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)

You're tempted to bend your own rules especially where relationships are concerned. Your value system is pretty firm. If you do something you would disapprove of in others, you'll carry the guilt heavily, and it will show in your face. If you resist it, you'll be very glad and proud of yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21)

You're afraid of starting this new cycle, but it's pointless not to enjoy it. Someone close to you is jealous. They may criticize you for doing the very thing they would love to be doing themselves - if they had the courage. Don't let them discourage you. Watch your money carefully and budget it equally as carefully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)

Your dreams can be prophetic, especially around the 2nd. You'll be feeling how limited you are, so try not to push too hard or you'll fall over your own feelings. Go slow and easy, and you'll find that things work out much nicer. Are you thinking of changing your job in some way? If so, do it because that's what you want.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19)

New goals and new directions are forming. That deep felt frustration is signalling outgrown dreams. Don't fantasize yourself into seeing a false reality in your relationships. See them as they are.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18)

Don't be upset because someone else has a different idea. Who knows, it may be a great idea! Be creative, but keep the ego out of it completely. You'll get recognition next month, but not this month. Spiritual beliefs are changing and you're releasing the old belief system. Your partner may want to be first, but work will have to come first - at least, for now.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20)

Relationship intensify in a very strong magnetic way. But, there's a lot more that needs to be there for balance and a good relationship. But, this is a good start! You'd make a great romance writer, especially this month. You may be considering making a major change in your resities, and her intentions have never been to promote devil worshipping or any other anti-religious culture.

"I don't care for any organized religion because it controls people through guilt," Pitel explained. "I'm into metaphysics - the belief which teaches you that God is within you and all things - and I think Christ was one of the greatest psychics that ever lived. He had all of the abilities we are supposed to have."

"I'm a religious person but not in the sense of organized religion."

So just how does the closet psychic use her abilities today? Pitel says it's more than a hobby, but it's not a business.

"I do readings for friends and I see things about other people. Usually, I try to block what I see about other people out of my mind. I feel very uncomfortable when I see things about other people," Pitel explained. "When I do read someone, I hold an object. When it warms up I see things about them, their past, present and future."

Although continually using those skills to guide her own life and to alter her own destiny, Pitel frowns upon doing continual readings for others. "I'd rather teach them how to do it for themselves," she said.

In her own life, she has predicted a car accident, known she would be employed by her present employer prior to working there and has used those same psychic skills to help her to paint and to draw. Still, however, she said, psychic abilities are not skills held by only a select number of humans. With proper practice, everyone can foresee their future, analyze everyday occurrences and, in fact, alter the course of one's own destiny before it is too late.

"The future is like a river - you can change the flow," said

Pitel. "Nothing is absolutely final in your future. You can change anything because you write your own daily life."

Police, businesses offer Halloween safety

By CURT JORDET
ANP Staff Writer

With the possible exception of Christmas—and perhaps the last day of school—no other time of the year can draw as much excitement and anticipation out of a child as can the night which precedes the Christian observance of All Saints Day.

It is Halloween, when all the ghosts, goblins and witches find their way into the night air to extract vast amounts of sugar-coated goodies from their neighbors under the veiled threat of mischief. The idea of becoming someone else for one evening has even remained as a mystic lure for adults, who often get into the act themselves by donning ceremonial garb to grab a piece of the fun.

And yet, with each passing year it becomes even more imperative to issue warnings in order to maintain the delicate balance of safety that is so often ignored on an evening of trick-or-treating.

While the main focus in recent years has been to avoid having children consume tainted candy, Youth Officer Michael Terry of the Westland Police juvenile bureau said a far bigger safety threat is in store for children on Halloween.

"Parents often sit with children for hours on end, lecturing to them about the dangers of eating food that has been handed out by strangers," said Terry. "And that is good."

"But by the same token, parents will generally spend only five minutes or so talking to them about safety on the street, and that is a far bigger threat to kids on for the consumer

fail to realize that the combination of a dark night and an abundance of excitable, distracted children means that their driving speed should be substantially reduced. "As a result, it means that children should be doubly defensive when it comes to traveling door-to-door," he added.

Terry recommended that beggars observe the following precautions when taking their Halloween show on the road:

- Wear light-colored, reflective clothing that is flame retardant and short enough to prevent tripping;

- Make sure face masks do not hamper visibility. If possible, remove all masks when crossing streets;

- Always be accompanied by a parent or guardian and travel in groups when necessary;

- Trick-or-treat only in familiar neighborhoods. Make a mental note of any suspicious activity and report it to those in authority;

- Go out in the daylight, if at all possible, and carry a flashlight in case of delay; and

- Keep an eye out at all times for traffic.

In addition, the Romulus Police Department recommends that parents can also aid in the cause by educating children about safety measures, only giving or accepting wrapped candy, and by examining all candy before allowing children to eat it. To aid in detecting potentially harmful materials, several places are offering the services of metal detectors on Halloween evening to help screen candy, including:

- Romulus Police Department, from 6-9 p.m.;
- Wayne Community Center, corner of Howe and Annapolis, from 6-10 p.m.;
- Westland Police Department, from 6-10 p.m.;
- All McDonald's restaurants in Belleville, Romulus, Wayne, Westland and Canton except for the following: 33921 Ford Road in Westland and 1645 S. Wayne in Westland.

LEE R. ADAIR
Age 44, of Westland, died October 26, 1986. Dear father of Lee Ann and Terrie Lynn, dear son of Ray, dear brother of William, Betty Adams, Sharlene Maul, nephew of Dewie Cole and William C. Cole. He was a machine operator for the City of Westland. He worked for the city since its founding and took medical retirement in 1982.
